Truman Challenges Russians To Agree

Plan Is Hailed As 'Foolproof' By President

Soviet Has Choice Of Paths To Peace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP) — President Truman challenged Russia tonight to accept a "foolproof" disarmament plan under which United Nations inspectors would police each country's forces and weapons, including atom bombs.

That is the path the free world would prefer to take toward real peace and security, the President said, but added:

"We will do it the hard way if we must — by going forward as we are doing now, to make the free world so strong that no would-be aggressor would dare to break the peace."

Mr. Truman's bid for the Kremlin to join in "this great enterprise for peace" was made in a radio and television address to the nation, which was beamed throughout the world by the Voice of America.

It was a followup and expansion of a proposal which the United States, Britain and France jointly had made a few hours earlier, for submission to the U. N. General Assembly in Paris.

Inventory First Step

The first step in the plan would be a great inventory, or census, of each nation's military strength.

This would be followed by cuts in armaments, and ultimately by the outlawing of atomic weapons.

Heretofore Russia has balked at the continuing outside inspection which Mr. Truman in his speech and the three nations in their U. N. proposal made the basis of their plan.

The President took note of that record and asserted:

"Any nation which is not willing to agree to this step, and to carry it out, is not really interested in disarmament."

He took note, too, of the "gloomy history of our negotiations with the Soviet Union" and said it is true that "we have experienced much bad faith, deceit and broken promises."

Nevertheless the effort must be made because it is "the right thing to do," Mr. Truman said — "we cannot permit the history of our times to record that we failed by default."

The President coupled his proposal with an implied promise that a share of this country's savings from reduction of the arms burden would be devoted to peaceful im-

Truman Sketches Possible Formula For Weapons Cuts

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP) — President Truman tonight sketched the outlines of a possible formula for setting limits on the world's armaments.

His address on the new American-British-French proposal to the United Nations for arms cuts included this passage:

"It might be possible, for example, to agree that each country would have armed forces proportionate to its population, with a ceiling beyond which no country could go.

"Furthermore, each country might be limited to using no more than a fixed portion of its national production for military purposes."

Crime Detection Teacher Booked

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Nov. 7 (AP)—A sociology professor, teacher of a class in crime detection, was booked by Sheriff John Ross today on suspicion of burglary and carrying a concealed weapon.

Dr. Gwynne Nettler, 38, a bachelor often referred to on the Santa Barbara College campus "as the best-dressed prof," denied the charges.

Ross said furnishings listed as stolen from homes in Santa Barbara and the fashionable suburb of Montecito were found in Nettler's home, and that a revolver was discovered in his new car. Nettler, an ex-lifeguard, was picked up at the beach when he came in from a swim.

Nettler, assistant professor of sociology at the University of California's branch here, was elected a fellow of the division of personality and social psychology of the American Psychological Association at its Chicago convention.

Allies Withdraw From Strategic Hill In Face Of Strong Red Attack

U. N. Troops On Another Height Beat Back Assault By Screaming Chinese Soldiers

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Thursday, Nov. 8 (AP)—Allied infantrymen withdrew from a strategic hill in Western Korea early today in the face of an overwhelming Communist attack. It was the seventh time the hill has changed hands in two weeks.

Allied troops dug in on another hill near the Imjin River west of Yonchon beat off an assault by screaming, whistle-blowing Chinese Reds during the night.

A U. N. command briefing officer said a small Allied unit abandoned the newly-won hill northwest of Yonchon, some 35 miles north of Seoul, when it spotted a force of 600 to 800 Chinese moving up the slope. As the Reds reached the summit, Allied artillery opened up with a devastating barrage.

The weather cleared somewhat yesterday after a long siege of winter rains. Planes of both sides were out in force.

Three dogfights over North Korea matched 114 Communist jets against Allied jets, but the Fifth Air Force said no damage was inflicted by either side.

On the ground, a Chinese assault drove Allied infantrymen off a hill position near Korangpo, nine miles east of Panmunjom, site of cease-fire negotiations. The Allies regrouped, counterattacked and took the height in a 45-minute fight.

AP Correspondent Milo Farneti in a dispatch from the central front said Allied troops surrounded a probing Chinese company in a swift pincers movement near Kumsong. An estimated 45 Communists were killed.

U. N. Defers Judgment On Red Buffer Proposal

MUNSAN, Korea, Thursday, Nov. 8 (AP)—The United Nations command today held up final judgment on a new Communist buffer zone proposal which carried a veto clause on adjusting the cease-fire line in Korea.

The Red proposal, offered near the end of Wednesday's subcommittee meeting at Panmunjom, contained certain "ambiguous or mutually contradictory" key phrases, an Allied communique said.

Allied and Communist subcommittees met at 11 a. m. today (9 p. m., EST, Wednesday) to consider the plan.

An Allied spokesman, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, declared "if there is some clarification . . . that can be obtained from subsequent meetings, perhaps we are closer (to agreement) than we think at the moment."

The Communist proposal consisted of two stated principles and three "understandings" which Nuckols said contained "superficial similarities but fundamental discrepancies" to the United Nations proposal for a buffer zone.

The Allies have insisted that hostilities must continue until a full armistice is signed. That means any buffer zone based on the battleline would change as the line changed. The Communist plan would freeze the buffer zone now while other armistice details are worked out.

Red Prosecutor Jailed

BERLIN, Nov. 7 (AP)—An East Berlin court today convicted one of its own people's prosecutors of "endangering the peace" and sentenced him to four years imprisonment.

The court found Erich Reinicke, 54, guilty of having "invented and distributed tendentious rumors" against the Communist-run East German state. He was public prosecutor in the Soviet sector provincial court.

U. S. Entertainers Survive Airplane Crash In Japan

TOKYO, Thursday, Nov. 8 (AP) — An Air Force C-47 transport carrying members of a touring show crashed and burned today at Haneda airport. Two of the estimated 17 passengers were cut, but all escaped serious injury.

The plane was taking off for another airport in Japan when it crashed in the mudflats at the end of the runway.

Voters Restive, Elections Show; Many 'Ins' Lose

[By The Associated Press]

A restive electorate which seemed bent on tossing out the "ins' regardless of party changed the political complexion of scores of city administrations in Tuesday's elections.

The returns, still being counted in places last night, gave both major parties something to crow about. The anti-crime crusaders also won victories.

Latest unofficial tabulations showed the full-man Democratic ticket headed by Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby to have been elected in Kentucky, but Republican Eugene Siler refused to concede the governorship on the basis of returns from more than half the state's precincts.

Election Was Anticipated

Wetherby's election to a full four-year term at Frankfort had been anticipated, but the final figures will be watched for any increase or lessening of Democratic strength in this important border state.

The off-year balloting, discounted in advance by party leaders as having little significance for 1952, nevertheless showed a tendency to displace a lot of old faces with new ones in local regimes. Republicans took over from Democrats and vice versa.

Much of this apparent voter unrest was traceable to the Senate Crime Committee disclosures.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), who headed the Senate crime probe, cited the New York City and Philadelphia elections as examples of the people's concern "over the exposure of crime and its political connections."

Halley Wins In New York

He referred to the resounding defeat of the Democratic organization by Rudolph Halley, chief counsel of the crime committee and splinter party candidate, for the New York City Council presidency, and the capture of the Philadelphia mayoralty by a Democrat, ending 68 years of Republican regimes in that city.

From Nashville, Tenn., he telegraphed congratulations to Halley and said:

"I think this is encouraging and heartening as an evidence of the people's interest in clean politics and good government."

Three Die When B-17 Crashes And Explodes

WILMINGTON, O., Nov. 7 (AP) — An Air Force B-17 bomber plummeted into a Southwestern Ohio pastoure today and all three occupants died in the resultant explosion and fire.

The four-engine bomber, assigned to the all-weather flying division of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, O., had taken off from the field only a half hour before the crash on a routine flight.

The crash occurred three miles northeast of nearby Sabina. Sabina is about 40 miles southeast of Dayton.

The bomber dug a long gash into the field. Debris was hurled into trees more than 50 feet away and the wreckage was strewn over several acres.

Quartet Held After $93,569 Bank Holdup

Three Men, Girl Seized With Loot

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 7 (AP) — Three gunmen, using careful timing methods, staged a $93,569 bank holdup today but were captured with the loot a few hours later after they switched cars and fled to Illinois with a red-haired girl companion.

The four were seized without resistance by two Lake County, Ill., deputy sheriffs when they stopped for a traffic light on Route 41 near Waukegan in Northeastern Illinois.

FBI agents from Chicago found bundles of bills in original bank wrappings in the rear compartment of the car and additional large sums of money on the girl and one of the men.

Sheriff Walter Atkinson of Lake County said James Joseph Leather, 36, Chicago, and Harold Noll, 18, had more oral statements that they took part in the holdup.

20-Year-Old Girl Seized

Others seized in the car were Glenn Morrow, 19, and Anne Slyder, 20, Chicago.

The holdup took place in midmorning in the northwestern branch of the First Wisconsin National Bank, largest in the state. The branch is about five miles from the downtown shopping district.

Two men stood guard near the door armed with a rifle and pistol, while the third valuted over a low railing and began scooping packages of bills into two pillow slips.

After only a few minutes, one of the men near the door started counting in a loud voice:

"Twenty two, 21, 20 . . ."

When he reached seven he shouted:

"Come on, boys, let's get out of here."

Speed Away In Snowstorm

The man scooping up the money dashed for the door and his two companions followed. They jumped into a dark colored sedan and sped west in a heavy snowstorm over slippery streets.

An alarm was broadcast and roadblocks were set up in Illinois. The original getaway car was found later in an alley six blocks from the bank.

Atkinson said Miss Slyder denied knowing anything about the holdup, saying:

"If I had known this was going to happen I wouldn't be here."

The sheriff said Leather told him the four of them registered at the Plankinton hotel here Monday and that the three men "cased" the bank Tuesday.

24 Of Freighter's Crewmen Saved

SEATTLE, Nov. 7 (AP) — Rescuers plucked 24 survivors of the stricken freighter George Walton from mountainous North Pacific seas today but 12 other crewmen were dead or missing.

An explosion and flames doomed the Walton 390 miles off the Washington coast late yesterday as she headed westward with 10,000 tons of wheat for India.

Three died of the blast or fire and were left aborad as the rest of the crew of 36 took to lifeboats. Four others were feared lost today when their lifeboat overturned just 50 yards from a rescue ship. The other five were unaccounted for. Planes and ships kept up the search, but the outlook grew bleak.

The Japanese vessel Kenkon Maru, guided by flares from a Coast Guard plane that circled the Walton through the night, was first to arrive in response to the freighter's frantic distress message. The Japanese crew took 12 men from a lifeboat in a perilous early morning rescue. Hours later they saw a second lifeboat with four men swamp in rough water as it approached the Kenkon Maru.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—President Truman today appointed Charles A. Coolidge of Massachusetts to be assistant secretary of defense to succeed Daniel K. Edwards.

Edwards is resigning Nov. 19 to accept appointment as vice U. S. deputy on the North Atlantic Defense Council.

Negro Shooting Case Is Probed By Justice Dept.

EUSTIS, Fla., Nov. 7 (AP) — The Justice Department today directed an investigation of the shooting of two negroes who had been granted a new trial after receiving death sentences for the rape of a young white farmwife.

Lake County Sheriff Willis B. McCall admitted the shooting and said it was self-defense. It took place around 9:30 p. m. Tuesday.

One of the negroes, Samuel Shepherd, 23, was killed. His companion, Walter Lee Irvin, also 23, was seriously wounded.

The U. S. Supreme Court had reversed a 1949 decision which sentenced the pair to death.

A little over two years ago McCall talked a mob out of taking them from the Lake County jail soon after their arrest. While McCall was arguing with the mob, the negroes were hidden in his home until they could be transferred elsewhere for safekeeping.

Tuesday night, Shepherd and Irvin were being taken to Tavares near this little Central Florida town for a hearing on two motions in connection with a re-trial.

McCall said the pair attacked him when he stopped to fix a flat tire.

The sheriff was ordered into a hospital by a doctor who said McCall was suffering from shock and had been under treatment for a heart ailment several years. Reporters were not permitted to talk to him.

State Attorney J. W. Hunter and Alex Akerman Jr., Orlando, one of the negroes' attorneys, said they would ask Gov. Fuller Warren for a special investigation.

The Justice Department's investigation was ordered by Attorney General McGrath in Washington. Department officials will seek to determine whether any violation of federal statutes is involved.

Army Will Revive Its K-Nine Corps

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Army announced today it has decided to revive the K-Nine Corps that served so valiantly in World War II.

The first postwar dog training center—using only German shepherds—will be opened at Camp Carson, Colo., on Dec. 1 with 48 canines and 24 enlisted men.

All the dogs will be purchased from commercial sources, the Army said, and dogs volunteered for unpaid service will not be accepted.

The K-Nine Corps in the last war numbered over 10,000 dogs of different breeds, many of them furnished by private owners as a patriotic service.

800 Attend Russ Embassy Party

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP) — Nearly 800 guests, led by Premier Mohammed Mossadegh of Iran, crowded into the Russian embassy tonight to attend the annual party celebrating the revolution which brought the Communists to power.

Acting Secretary of State James E. Webb failed to show up. But three other State Department officials, including Protocal Chief John F. Simmons, dropped around to drink vodka and sample Soviet caviar, sturgeon, American ham, chicken, turkey, and other delicacies.

Mossadegh, the ailing Iranian leader, took time off from his conferences with American officials on Iran's oil problems to appear. He shook hands warmly with Russian Ambassador Alexander S. Psnyushkin and left about 10 minutes later.

Most of the other guests were eastern European diplomats, some Western European representatives, numerous private Americans and reporters. Paul Robeson, negro singer and advocate of leftist causes in the United States, was present.

Jane Russell Brings Baby To U. S. Upon Mother's Plea

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP) — Movie Star Jane Russell came home today from Europe with a 15-month-old baby in her arms.

At 15 months, the baby didn't know what he was doing here. Neither, apparently, did anyone else, including Jane.

"It was handed to me," she said.

The baby's mother, she explained, approached her at the Savoy Hotel in London and brought the child — fair-haired, blue-eyed and Irish — with her.

Said Miss Russell:

"She pleaded with me to take the child to America where she knew it would get a good home and good education. The woman was in need and pleaded with me so that I could not resist."

Miss Russell flew in from Europe, then went on by plane to Los Angeles. Her mother, Mrs. Geraldine Jacoby Russell, was taking the baby to California by way of Denver on another plane.

The movie actress said she didn't plan to adopt the child, although she made the trip to Europe in search of a baby she could adopt.

However, immigration authorities said the baby was brought into this country for permanent residence under the British immigrant quota. As far as they are concerned, it can stay here as long as it wants to.

In London, the Irish baby's mother, Mrs. Florrie Kavanagh, said Miss Russell took her child to the U. S. for a visit.

Rigid System Of Inspection Basis Of Plan

U. N. Observers See Rejection By USSR

PARIS, Nov. 7 (AP) — The United States, Britain and France proposed tonight a world peace plan providing for the regulation and reduction of all armed forces and arms, including atomic weapons under an iron-clad system of verification.

U. N. observers were almost certain, however, that Russia would reject the three-power disarmament scheme because it incorporates a number of proposals for arms control already turned down by the Soviets in the U. N.

They pointed out that only the inclusion of atomic weapons in the general reduction of arms and the proposed preliminary world census of arms were new in the three-power proposal.

The broad plan, announced simultaneously in Washington, London and Paris, is to be presented in detail here to the United Nations General Assembly. The official announcement confirmed U. S. plans first reported by the Associated Press on Monday.

May Put USSR On Defensive

The Big Three Western nations said "the United Nations plan for the international control of atomic energy and the prohibition of atomic weapons should continue to serve as the basis for the atomic energy aspects of any general program for the regulation, limitation and balanced reduction of all armaments and armed forces, unless and until a better and more effective plan can be devised."

Soviet Russia has rejected that plan, which the United States sponsored in the U. N. The Russians' primary objection is to on-the-spot inspection by international teams.

The western peace move, therefore, appears designed mainly for propaganda purposes—to throw the Russians on the defensive and nullify any benefits they might expect from their own peace offensive. The Russians have contended the idea of unlimited inspection is just part of an American scheme to build up a huge spy system.

A key paragraph of the announcement said:

"The three governments believe that a workable program should include criteria according to which the size of all armed forces would be limited, the portion of national production which could be used for military production would be restricted, and mutually agreed national military programs would be arrived at within the prescribed limits and restrictions."

Talks Should Begin Now

The three powers said they believed discussion of such a program should begin now, but it could not be put into effect "while United Nations forces are resisting aggression in Korea."

Furthermore, they added, the major political issues which have divided the world can and must be settled concurrently with the taking effect of any such program.

The three governments warned that, in the absence of an arms agreement and so long as "present conditions of international tension

USSR 'Prepared,' Marshal Asserts

MOSCOW, Nov. 7 (AP) — Marshal Rodion Malinovsky bitterly charged American leaders today with conducting a policy of aggression and preparing for a new war, but said the Soviet Union is "fully armed" to meet any attack.

Intermittent snow fell in below zero weather as Malinovsky reviewed a long parade of motorized and mechanized army units across Red Square on the 34th anniversary of the Bolshevist revolution. Jet planes and four-engined bombers flew overhead.

Leading members of the Politburo, headed by Lavrenty P. Beria and Georgi M. Malenkov, surveyed the scene from the top of Lenin's black tomb.

(The prominence given Beria and Malenkov in the celebration suggested they have have taken over on-the-spot direction of Soviet affairs in Moscow. There was no mention in Moscow dispatches of the presence of Prime Minister Stalin or V. M. Molotov at the anniversary observance. Stalin, now nearing 72, usually heads for a Black Sea resort when Moscow's weather gets around zero. Beria, in his anniversary eve address, however, said several government decisions were on Stalin's direct initiative.)

Sinatra And Ava Gardner Wed In Private Ceremony

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7 (AP) — Frank Sinatra and Ava Gardner were married tonight.

The double ring ceremony took place in a colonial style stone house on a quiet street in the fashionable West Germantown section of Philadelphia. It lasted 10 minutes.

Judge Joseph Sloane of Common Pleas Court officiated. Miss Gardner was given away by Emmanuel (Mannie) Sacks, a vice president of Radio Corporation of America.

Sinatra and Miss Gardner were attended by Singer June Hutton and her husband, Band Leader Axel Stordahl. Guests included Sinatra's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sinatra of Hoboken, N. J., Miss Gardner's sister, Beatrice, and Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Levy. Levy is the director of radio station WCAU, a Columbia Broadcasting System affiliate.

No newsmen nor photographers were permitted inside the house, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Sacks.

A score of newsmen and photographers tramped about the damp lawn outside the house for as long as four hours, waiting a chance to talk to the Sinatras or snap a picture of them.

But nobody was allowed inside. Plain-clothed detectives guarded the doors and when the Sinatras were whisked away from the home three hours after the ceremony, three patrol cars guarded them from newsmen, who were unable to speak to them.

Frank came out once before the ceremony to issue a warning to a photographer. He told him he'd "beat him up" if he tried to take a picture. One private photographer snapped pictures of the ceremony and distributed them to newspapers and wire services.

Britons Facing Super-Austerity; Imports Slashed

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Winston Churchill's government announced today it is going to cut its buying abroad by nearly a billion dollars a year and make money dearer to borrowers at home in order to get Britain out of the red.

Austerity, which the British have been taking for the 12 years since they got into the war with Germany, is coming in bigger and more bitter doses.

Imports to be cut will include food and stockpiling materials.

R. A. Butler, new Conservative chancellor of the exchequer, announced in the House of Commons the bad news forecast by Churchill yesterday. Churchill said he had found Britain on the road to "national bankruptcy" and "exceptional measures" would have to be taken.

Butler said the nationalized Bank of England is raising its bank rate immediately from the present two per cent to 2½ per cent to check inflation. This means a borrower will have to pay more interest for a loan from any bank in England. This was the first change in the rate since 1939.

The stiff new program also calls for:

1—Reductions in the nation's food supplies and the end of a number of non-rationed extras, such as canned meats and fruits brought in from abroad .

2—A new tax on excess profits.

3—A ban on all new building for the next three months except dwellings and rearmament factories.

4—A new drive to increase production by British industry in an effort to provide more goods for export.

5—A 50 per cent cut in the amount of money a Briton may take out of the country, a reduction from £100 ($280) to £50 ($140).

Weather Forecast

Three Men, Girl Seized With Loot

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 7 (AP) — Three gunmen, using careful timing methods, staged a $93,569 bank holdup today but were captured with the loot a few hours later after they switched cars and fled to Illinois with a red-haired girl companion.

The four were seized without resistance by two Lake County, Ill., deputy sheriffs when they stopped for a traffic light on Route 41 near Waukegan in Northeastern Illinois.

FBI agents from Chicago found bundles of bills in original bank wrappings in the rear compartment of the car and additional large sums of money on the girl and one of the men.

Sheriff Walter Atkinson of Lake County said James Joseph Leather, 36, Chicago, and Harold Noll, 18, had more oral statements that they took part in the holdup.

20-Year-Old Girl Seized

Others seized in the car were Glenn Morrow, 19, and Anne Slyder, 20, Chicago.

The holdup took place in midmorning in the northwestern branch of the First Wisconsin National Bank, largest in the state. The branch is about five miles from the downtown shopping district.

Two men stood guard near the door armed with a rifle and pistol, while the third valuted over a low railing and began scooping packages of bills into two pillow slips.

After only a few minutes, one of the men near the door started counting in a loud voice:

"Twenty two, 21, 20 . . ."

When he reached seven he shouted:

"Come on, boys, let's get out of here."

Speed Away In Snowstorm

The man scooping up the money dashed for the door and his two companions followed. They jumped into a dark colored sedan and sped west in a heavy snowstorm over slippery streets.

An alarm was broadcast and roadblocks were set up in Illinois. The original getaway car was found later in an alley six blocks from the bank.

Atkinson said Miss Slyder denied knowing anything about the holdup, saying:

"If I had known this was going to happen I wouldn't be here."

The sheriff said Leather told him the four of them registered at the Plankinton hotel here Monday and that the three men "cased" the bank Tuesday.

24 Of Freighter's Crewmen Saved

SEATTLE, Nov. 7 (AP) — Rescuers plucked 24 survivors of the stricken fieghter George Walton from mountainous North Pacific seas today but 12 other crewmen were dead or missing.

An explosion and flames doomed the Walton 390 miles off the Washington coast late yesterday as she headed westward with 10,000 tons of wheat for India.

Three died of the blast or fire and were left aborad as the rest of the crew of 36 took to lifeboats. Four others were feared lost today when their lifeboat overturned just 50 yards from a rescue ship. The other five were unaccounted for. Planes and ships kept up the search, but the outlook grew bleak.

The Japanese vessel Kenkon Maru, guided by flares from a Coast Guard plane that circled the Walton through the night, was first to arrive in response to the freighter's frantic distress message. The Japanese crew took 12 men from a lifeboat in a perilous early morning rescue. Hours later they saw a second lifeboat with four men swamp in rough water as it approached the Kenkon Maru.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—President Truman today appointed Charles A. Coolidge of Massachusetts to be assistant secretary of defense to succeed Daniel K. Edwards.

Edwards is resigning Nov. 19 to accept appointment as vice U. S. deputy on the North Atlantic Defense Council.

Negro Shooting Case Is Probed By Justice Dept.

EUSTIS, Fla., Nov. 7 (AP) — The Justice Department today directed an investigation of the shooting of two negroes who had been granted a new trial after receiving death sentences for the rape of a young white farmwife.

Lake County Sheriff Willis B. McCall admitted the shooting and said it was self-defense. It took place around 9:30 p. m. Tuesday.

One of the negroes, Samuel Shepherd, 23, was killed. His companion, Walter Lee Irvin, also 23, was seriously wounded.

The U. S. Supreme Court had reversed a 1949 decision which sentenced the pair to death.

A little over two years ago McCall talked a mob out of taking them from the Lake County jail soon after their arrest. While McCall was arguing with the mob, the negroes were hidden in his home until they could be transferred elsewhere for safekeeping.

Tuesday night, Shepherd and Irvin were being taken to Tavares near this little Central Florida town for a hearing on two motions in connection with a re-trial.

McCall said the pair attacked him when he stopped to fix a flat tire.

The sheriff was ordered into a hospital by a doctor who said McCall was suffering from shock and had been under treatment for a heart ailment several years. Reporters were not permitted to talk to him.

State Attorney J. W. Hunter and Alex Akerman Jr., Orlando, one of the negroes' attorneys, said they would ask Gov. Fuller Warren for a special investigation.

The Justice Department's investigation was ordered by Attorney General McGrath in Washington. Department officials will seek to determine whether any violation of federal statutes is involved.

Army Will Revive Its K-Nine Corps

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Army announced today it has decided to revive the K-Nine Corps that served so valiantly in World War II.

The first postwar dog training center—using only German shepherds—will be opened at Camp Carson, Colo., on Dec. 1 with 48 canines and 24 enlisted men.

All the dogs will be purchased from commercial sources, the Army said, and dogs volunteered for unpaid service will not be accepted.

The K-Nine Corps in the last war numbered over 10,000 dogs of different breeds, many of them furnished by private owners as a patriotic service.

800 Attend Russ Embassy Party

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP) — Nearly 800 guests, led by Premier Mohammed Mossadegh of Iran, crowded into the Russian embassy tonight to attend the annual party celebrating the revolution which brought the Communists to power.

Acting Secretary of State James E. Webb failed to show up. But three other State Department officials, including Protocal Chief John F. Simmons, dropped around to drink vodka and sample Soviet caviar, sturgeon, American ham, chicken, turkey, and other delicacies.

Mossadegh, the ailing Iranian leader, took time off from his conferences with American officials on Iran's oil problems to appear. He shook hands warmly with Russian Ambassador Alexander S. Psnyushkin and left about 10 minutes later.

Most of the other guests were eastern European diplomats, some Western European representatives, numerous private Americans and reporters. Paul Robeson, negro singer and advocate of leftist causes in the United States, was present.

Rigid System Of Inspection Basis Of Plan

U. N. Observers See Rejection By USSR

PARIS, Nov. 7 (AP) — The United States, Britain and France proposed tonight a world peace plan providing for the regulation and reduction of all armed forces and arms, including atomic weapons under an iron-clad system of verification.

U. N. observers were almost certain, however, that Russia would reject the three-power disarmament scheme because it incorporates a number of proposals for arms control already turned down by the Soviets in the U. N.

They pointed out that only the inclusion of atomic weapons in the general reduction of arms and the proposed preliminary world census of arms were new in the three-power proposal.

The broad plan, announced simultaneously in Washington, London and Paris, is to be presented in detail here to the United Nations General Assembly. The official announcement confirmed U. S. plans first reported by the Associated Press on Monday.

May Put USSR On Defensive

The Big Three Western nations said "the United Nations plan for the international control of atomic energy and the prohibition of atomic weapons should continue to serve as the basis for the atomic energy aspects of any general program for the regulation, limitation and balanced reduction of all armaments and armed forces, unless and until a better and more effective plan can be devised."

Soviet Russia has rejected that plan, which the United States sponsored in the U. N. The Russians' primary objection is to on-the-spot inspection by international teams.

The western peace move, therefore, appears designed mainly for propaganda purposes—to throw the Russians on the defensive and nullify any benefits they might expect from their own peace offensive. The Russians have contended the idea of unlimited inspection is just part of an American scheme to build up a huge spy system.

A key paragraph of the announcement said:

"The three governments believe that a workable program should include criteria according to which the size of all armed forces would be limited, the portion of national production which could be used for military production would be restricted, and mutually agreed national military programs would be arrived at within the prescribed limits and restrictions."

Talks Should Begin Now

The three powers said they believed discussion of such a program should begin now, but it could not be put into effect "while United Nations forces are resisting aggression in Korea."

Furthermore, they added, the major political issues which have divided the world can and must be settled concurrently with the taking effect of any such program.

The three governments warned that, in the absence of an arms agreement and so long as "present conditions of international tension

USSR 'Prepared,' Marshal Asserts

MOSCOW, Nov. 7 (AP) — Marshal Rodion Malinovsky bitterly charged American leaders today with conducting a policy of aggression and preparing for a new war, but said the Soviet Union is "fully armed" to meet any attack.

Intermittent snow fell in below zero weather as Malinovsky reviewed a long parade of motorized and mechanized army units across Red Square on the 34th anniversary of the Bolshevist revolution. Jet planes and four-engined bombers flew overhead.

Leading members of the Politburo, headed by Lavrenty P. Beria and Georgi M. Malenkov, surveyed the scene from the top of Lenin's black tomb.

(The prominence given Beria and Malenkov in the celebration suggested they have have taken over on-the-spot direction of Soviet affairs in Moscow. There was no mention in Moscow dispatches of the presence of Prime Minister Stalin or V. M. Molotov at the anniversary observance. Stalin, now nearing 72, usually heads for a Black Sea resort when Moscow's weather gets around zero. Beria, in his anniversary eve address, however, said several government decisions were on Stalin's direct initiative.)

Crime Detection Teacher Booked

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Nov. 7 (AP)—A sociology professor, teacher of a class in crime detection, was booked by Sheriff John Ross today on suspicion of burglary and carrying a concealed weapon.

Dr. Gwynne Nettler, 38, a bachelor often referred to on the Santa Barbara College campus "as the best-dressed prof," denied the charges.

Ross said furnishings listed as stolen from homes in Santa Barbara and the fashionable suburb of Montecito were found in Nettler's home, and that a revolver was discovered in his new car. Nettler, an ex-lifeguard, was picked up at the beach when he came in from a swim.

Nettler, assistant professor of sociology at the University of California's branch here, was elected a fellow of the division of personality and social psychology of the American Psychological Association at its Chicago convention.

Sinatra And Ava Gardner Wed In Private Ceremony

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7 (AP) — Frank Sinatra and Ava Gardner were married tonight.

The double ring ceremony took place in a colonial style stone house on a quiet street in the fashionable West Germantown section of Philadelphia. It lasted 10 minutes.

Judge Joseph Sloane of Common Pleas Court officiated. Miss Gardner was given away by Emmanuel (Mannie) Sacks, a vice president of Radio Corporation of America.

Sinatra and Miss Gardner were attended by Singer June Hutton and her husband, Band Leader Axel Stordahl. Guests included Sinatra's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sinatra of Hoboken, N. J., Miss Gardner's sister, Beatrice, and Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Levy. Levy is the director of radio station WCAU, a Columbia Broadcasting System affiliate.

No newsmen nor photographers were permitted inside the house, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Sacks.

A score of newsmen and photographers tramped about the damp lawn outside the house for as long as four hours, waiting a chance to talk to the Sinatras or snap a picture of them.

But nobody was allowed inside. Plain-clothed detectives guarded the doors and when the Sinatras were whisked away from the home three hours after the ceremony, three patrol cars guarded them from newsmen, who were unable to speak to them.

Frank came out once before the ceremony to issue a warning to a photographer. He told him he'd "beat him up" if he tried to take a picture. One private photographer snapped pictures of the ceremony and distributed them to newspapers and wire services.

Jane Russell Brings Baby To U. S. Upon Mother's Plea

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP) — Movie Star Jane Russell came home today from Europe with a 15-month-old baby in her arms.

At 15 months, the baby didn't know what he was doing here. Neither, apparently, did anyone else, including Jane.

"It was handed to me," she said.

The baby's mother, she explained, approached her at the Savoy Hotel in London and brought the child — fair-haired, blue-eyed and Irish — with her.

Said Miss Russell:

"She pleaded with me to take the child to America where she knew it would get a good home and good education. The woman was in need and pleaded with me so that I could not resist."

Miss Russell flew in from Europe, then went on by plane to Los Angeles. Her mother, Mrs. Geraldine Jacoby Russell, was taking the baby to California by way of Denver on another plane.

The movie actress said she didn't plan to adopt the child, although she made the trip to Europe in search of a baby she could adopt.

However, immigration authorities said the baby was brought into this country for permanent residence under the British immigrant quota. As far as they are concerned, it can stay here as long as it wants to.

In London, the Irish baby's mother, Mrs. Florrie Kavanagh, said Miss Russell took her child to the U. S. for a visit.

Wage Controls Hit By Murray

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray today challenged business and the government to freeze prices and profits if they expect labor to continue to submit to wage controls.

Murray, speaking on an "equality of sacrifice" resolution adopted by the CIO convention, said the present arrangement of wage controls is "discriminatory and unfair" to wage earners.

He hinted that his 1,000,000 member steelworkers' union might strike to win new wage concessions from the steel industry after Jan. 1.

Murray said "it may be that the workers will be forced into a strike situation through no fault of their own," as a result of the wage curbs.

He said the CIO "is in perfect disagreement with our government agencies on controls. If wages are to be controlled, so should profits and prices."

Joseph A. Beirne, president of the CIO Communications Workers Union and a member of the Wage Stabilization Board, advised his fellow union members to negotiate wage increases "just as if there was no Wage Stabilization Board—without fear of any man or any consequences."

Nathan P. Feinsinger, chairman of the WSB, promised the CIO earlier that the board would examine proposed wage increases "in the light of the realities of industrial life."

Contino's Application For Parole Is Denied

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—The U. S. Parole Board said today it has denied a parole application by Richard Joseph Contino, well-known accordionist, serving time for failure to report for induction into the armed services under the draft act.

Contino is serving a six months sentence on McNeil Island, in the State of Washington.

The accordionist, who lives in Los Angeles, was sentenced Aug. 7 of this year in San Francisco and became eligible for parole two months later. Unless his case should be reconsidered, he will leave prison after completing his term on Jan. 6, 1952, counting time off for good behavior.

Apples For Britain

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7 (AP)—Ten thousand boxes of apples from Winchester, Va., are scheduled to leave the port of Baltimore Nov. 20 for the United Kingdom.

Gale force winds, heavy rain and sleet pounded the eastern seaboard Wednesday while residents of much of the Midwest dug out from under a record breaking early snowfall.

Storm warnings were issued to East coast shipping in a special Weather Bureau bulletin. The eastern storm was connected with another severe disturbance that caused the heavy snows in the Midwest.

The rain and strong winds, with gusts up to 55 miles an hour, caused cancellation of a number of incoming airline flights in New York City. Runaways were flooded at La Guardia Airport.

North Carolina's coast was swamped with more than three inches of rain during the night. Rain fell in New England. Boston's rainfall for the first week of November was 4.5 inches—more than the normal amount for the entire month and equal to 45 inches of snow.

The eastern storm sucked up a mass of warm air from the Gulf of Mexico that snuffed out a chilly spell in the East.

Sleet and freezing rain pelted the St. Lawrence Valley and the southern fringe of Lake Ontario, but all highways remained open.

The snow let up in St. Louis, almost paralyzed from its worst 24-hour snowstorm in 39 years, but continued throughout the day in Chicago. St. Louis was buried under a foot of snow. Chicago had an eight-inch snow blanket that turned into slush overnight.

prevail," they are unshakeably determined to continue building up their arsenals and armed forces "for their security and that of the free world."

The three powers said the sincere regulation and limitation of armed forces and armaments would greatly reduce the danger of war and enhance the security of all nations.

They insisted the first and indispensable step for any honest program of this kind would be a system of disclosure and verification in successive stages to cover all armed forces and armaments.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7 (AP)—Archbishop Keough today called upon Catholics in the Baltimore Archdiocese to contribute clothing during Thanksgiving week to destitute peoples of Korea, Europe and Asia.

He appointed the Rev. Joseph F. Healy of St. Matthews Church in Baltimore to direct the collection in the archdiocese.

Halley's Victory Rocks Tammany

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP) — Crime Buster Rudolph Halley's upset of Tammany Hall left that ancient keystone of Democratic strength in a shaky position today for the 1952's presidential campaign.

It was the second year in a row that the regular Democratic organization took a sound licking in New York City.

Without the city in '52, the Democratic administration can kiss the state's 47 electoral votes goodbye. The rest of the state goes Republican.

Halley piled up a neat plurality of 163,492 votes to win New York City's second highest office — the $25,000-a-year post as president of the City Council.

Of his victory, he said:

"I think the people actually analyzed the issue in the election and stopped voting blindly along party lines."

Like Mayor Vincent Impellitteri a year ago, Halley was a Democrat, spurned by his own party. Both men ran independently and both won easily.

Shah Asks Iranian Premier To Return

TEHRAN, Iran, Nov. 7 (AP) — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, distressed over Iran's worsening economic and political crisis, has cabled Premier Mohammed Mossadegh in Washington a request to return home immediately, an authoritative source said tonight.

The young ruler was reported to feel the nation needs the elderly premier on the job here and now.

Mossadegh has been in the United States a month. He headed to Washington after pleading Iran's case before the Security Council in New York against Britain's bid for U. N. intervention in the British-Iranian oil dispute.

Sen. Lodge Renews Call For Red Probe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) called again today for a bi-partisan investigation of charges that the State Department has been infiltrated by Communists.

The charges have been leveled repeatedly by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and by others. Lodge wants them sifted by a bi-partisan commission "solely answerable to Congress."

"Such an investigation," Lodge said in a statement, "will result in cleaning out the unfit and in ending any unjustified suspicion of the fine men and women who work in the State Department."

Lodge is sponsor of legislation to set up the inquiry commission.

Lumber Mill Worker Cut In Half By Saw

CASS LAKE, Minn., Nov. 7 (AP)—A lumber mill workman was cut in half by a whirling circular saw near here today.

The victim was Marvin Riggles, 42, killed in an accident at Yocum's mill south of here.

Riggles had just finished filing the saw and was leaning over to set the guide on the machine. Authorities said he evidentally tripped the carriage lever accidentally and was thrown onto the saw.

The blade cut him diagonally from the shoulder to the waist.

President Acts In Police Probe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—President Truman today cleared the way for Senate investigators to examine the income tax returns of Washington policemen in the current inquiry into alleged tieups between police officials and gamblers.

The White House said Mr. Truman will issue an executive order releasing the tax data before the President leaves for a vacation at Key West, Fla., tomorrow.

The President acted after Police Chief Robert J. Barrett, leading what has been dubbed a "policemen's revolt," obtained a temporary court order against forcing police to answer a 1,750-question form delving into their financial affairs.

Mr. Truman issued a similar order to help the Kefauver Senate Crime Committee in its widely televised investigation of nationwide crime.

A hearing on Chief Barrett's petition for a permanent injunction is scheduled for tomorrow in District Court.

Barrett has contended that the lengthy questionnaire represents an unconstitutional violation of the privacy of policemen.

Barrett's attorneys, Charles E. Ford and Martin Canfield, offered to drop the chief's court action yesterday if the questionnaire were rewritten to eliminate questions directed at the wives and children of policemen.

However, the Senate District Crime Investigating Committee and district commissioners rejected the compromise proposal and called for a showdown.

Talks With Gromyko

MOSCOW, Nov. 7 (AP)—The United States charge d'affaires in Moscow, Hugh S. Cumming, Jr., was summoned tonight to the Soviet Ministry of Foreign Affairs to see Acting Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The interview lasted half an hour. Cumming said he could not reveal anything about his meeting with Gromyko.

All Or None Proposition

"If that cost could be reduced — if the burden of armaments could be lessened, new energies and resources would be liberated for greatly enlarged programs of reconstruction and development," he said.

He called that "the only kind of war we seek — the war against want and human misery."

The President laid his main emphasis on the call for "an honest, continuing inventry of all armed forces and armaments, including atomic weapons."

"No country can afford to reduce its defenses unless it is sure the other fellow is reducing his at the same time," he said.

On that basis he declared that "we shall continue to build strong defenses in Europe and in other parts of the world — just as long as that is necessary."

Mr. Truman gave this outline of the specific disarmament steps:

"First, we propose a continuing inventory of all armed forces and armaments be undertaken. This inventory would take place in every country having substantial military power, and it would be checked and verified in each of those countries by inspectors who are nationals of other countries, working under the United Nations. These inspectors would have authority to find out what the real facts are.

"Second, we propose that, while this process of inventory and inspection is taking place, the nations work out specific arrangements for the actual reduction of armed strength.

"Third, we propose, on the basis of these two steps, that the reductions which are the goal of the program be made as soon as that can be done, with full knowledge and fairness to all."

Halley's Victory Rocks Tammany

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP) — Crime Buster Rudolph Halley's upset of Tammany Hall left that ancient keystone of Democratic strength in a shaky position today for the 1952's presidential campaign.

It was the second year in a row that the regular Democratic organization took a sound licking in New York City.

Without the city in '52, the Democratic administration can kiss the state's 47 electoral votes goodbye. The rest of the state goes Republican.

Halley piled up a neat plurality of 163,492 votes to win New York City's second highest office — the $25,000-a-year post as president of the City Council.

Of his victory, he said:

"I think the people actually analyzed the issue in the election and stopped voting blindly along party lines."

Like Mayor Vincent Impellitteri a year ago, Halley was a Democrat, spurned by his own party. Both men ran independently and both won easily.

Shah Asks Iranian Premier To Return

TEHRAN, Iran, Nov. 7 (AP) — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, distressed over Iran's worsening economic and political crisis, has cabled Premier Mohammed Mossadegh in Washington a request to return home immediately, an authoritative source said tonight.

The young ruler was reported to feel the nation needs the elderly premier on the job here and now.

Mossadegh has been in the United States a month. He headed to Washington after pleading Iran's case before the Security Council in New York against Britain's bid for U. N. intervention in the British-Iranian oil dispute.

Sen. Lodge Renews Call For Red Probe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) called again today for a bi-partisan investigation of charges that the State Department has been infiltrated by Communists.

The charges have been leveled repeatedly by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and by others. Lodge wants them sifted by a bi-partisan commission "solely answerable to Congress."

"Such an investigation," Lodge said in a statement, "will result in cleaning out the unfit and in ending any unjustified suspicion of the fine men and women who work in the State Department."

Lodge is sponsor of legislation to set up the inquiry commission.

Lumber Mill Worker Cut In Half By Saw

CASS LAKE, Minn., Nov. 7 (AP)—A lumber mill workman was cut in half by a whirling circular saw near here today.

The victim was Marvin Riggles, 42, killed in an accident at Yocum's mill south of here.

Riggles had just finished filing the saw and was leaning over to set the guide on the machine. Authorities said he evidentally tripped the carriage lever accidentally and was thrown onto the saw.

The blade cut him diagonally from the shoulder to the waist.

President Acts In Police Probe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—President Truman today cleared the way for Senate investigators to examine the income tax returns of Washington policemen in the current inquiry into alleged tieups between police officials and gamblers.

The White House said Mr. Truman will issue an executive order releasing the tax data before the President leaves for a vacation at Key West, Fla., tomorrow.

The President acted after Police Chief Robert J. Barrett, leading what has been dubbed a "policemen's revolt," obtained a temporary court order against forcing police to answer a 1,750-question form delving into their financial affairs.

Mr. Truman issued a similar order to help the Kefauver Senate Crime Committee in its widely televised investigation of nationwide crime.

A hearing on Chief Barrett's petition for a permanent injunction is scheduled for tomorrow in District Court.

Barrett has contended that the lengthy questionnaire represents an unconstitutional violation of the privacy of policemen.

Barrett's attorneys, Charles E. Ford and Martin Canfield, offered to drop the chief's court action yesterday if the questionnaire were rewritten to eliminate questions directed at the wives and children of policemen.

However, the Senate District Crime Investigating Committee and district commissioners rejected the compromise proposal and called for a showdown.

Talks With Gromyko

MOSCOW, Nov. 7 (AP)—The United States charge d'affaires in Moscow, Hugh S. Cumming, Jr., was summoned tonight to the Soviet Ministry of Foreign Affairs to see Acting Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The interview lasted half an hour. Cumming said he could not reveal anything about his meeting with Gromyko.

All Or None Proposition

"If that cost could be reduced — if the burden of armaments could be lessened, new energies and resources would be liberated for greatly enlarged programs of reconstruction and development," he said.

He called that "the only kind of war we seek — the war against want and human misery."

The President laid his main emphasis on the call for "an honest, continuing inventry of all armed forces and armaments, including atomic weapons."

"No country can afford to reduce its defenses unless it is sure the other fellow is reducing his at the same time," he said.

On that basis he declared that "we shall continue to build strong defenses in Europe and in other parts of the world — just as long as that is necessary."

Mr. Truman gave this outline of the specific disarmament steps:

"First, we propose a continuing inventory of all armed forces and armaments be undertaken. This inventory would take place in every country having substantial military power, and it would be checked and verified in each of those countries by inspectors who are nationals of other countries, working under the United Nations. These inspectors would have authority to find out what the real facts are.

"Second, we propose that, while this process of inventory and inspection is taking place, the nations work out specific arrangements for the actual reduction of armed strength.

"Third, we propose, on the basis of these two steps, that the reductions which are the goal of the program be made as soon as that can be done, with full knowledge and fairness to all."

Kendall Notes Capital Gains Tax Law Change

Inequity Stricken From Measure

Relief for home owners from an inequity in the capital gains tax law is provided in new tax legislation signed into law by President Truman, Edgar A. Kendall, president of the Cumberland Real Estate Board, said last night.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards had urged this basic change in the law for years. The association supported and suggested refining amendments introduced by Rep. Aime J. Forand (D-R. I.), Kendall added.

Taxed Any Increase

The old law taxed as a capital gain any increase in value over the original purchase price of an owner-occupied home which was sold or traded by the owner for another home to be occupied by him.

Under the new law it is provided that when the sale of the taxpayer's principal residence is followed within a year by the purchase of a substitute, or when a substitute is bought within a year prior to the sale, gain is to be recognized only to the extent that the selling price of the old home exceeds the cost of the new.

Point Illustrated

Thus, if a dwelling purchased in 1940 for $10,000 was sold or traded in 1951 for $15,000, there would have been a taxable gain of $5,000 under the old law. Under the new law no portion of the gain is taxable provided a substitute "principal residence" is bought within the time limit for $15,000 or more. If the replacement cost is less than $15,000, say $14,000, the amount taxable as gain is $1,000.

Kendall explained that if the residence is part of business property, as in the case of an apartment over a store building or a home on a farm, and the entire property is sold, the provision applies only to that part used as a residence, including the environs and outbuildings relating to the dwelling but not those relating to the business operations.

Benefits of the new law apply to the sale of an owner's home made after December 31, 1950.

The appointment would be for an indefinite term, with Tyson serving as umpire in all disputes which are subject to arbitration at the Kelly plant.

Milk Production In October Hits 215 Tons

Raines' Holstein Boasts Top Yield

Cows on the 29 area dairy farms checked in the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association survey produced a total of more than 215 tons of milk in October, Supervisors Wheeler W. Arnold and Harry E. Miller reported yesterday.

The supervisor's report disclosed that the 29 farms contain 783 cows, of which 172 were dry during October. The total production included 430,000 pounds of milk and 17,695 pounds of butterfat.

94 Pounds On Top

Last month's butterfat queen in the association was Bunny Lois, a grade Holstein owned by Lester Raines, RFD 2, which produced 94 pounds of butterfat in a total yield of 2,190 pounds of milk.

Second-ranking cow in butterfat yield was Brownie, a grade Guernsey owned by Paul E. Greise, Mason Road, with 87 pounds of butterfat in a production of 1,550 pounds of milk.

Seven Farms

Seven different farms are represented in the list of the 12 biggest butterfat producers. The reason for 12 on the honor roll is that four cows were tied for ninth place, with 62 pounds each. Normally, only the top ten producers are listed.

Of the 12 top cows, seven are Holsteins, four Guernseys and one Ayrshire.

Raines not only had the top producer, but other of his cows ranked third and tied for ninth. Greise, Carl W. Garland and Sons, Buffalo Mills, Pa., and Brinker Brothers, Springfield, W. Va., each had two cows on the select list.

The other three farms on the honor roll are John T. Mason, Cresaptown; Marshall R. Porter, RFD 2, Frostburg, and Potomac State School Farm, Keyser, W. Va.

Radio To Broadcast Religious Program

"An Idea Hits a Town" will be heard over a local radio station today at 9:45 p. m. as the next program in the new radio series, "Let There Be Light," sponsored here by the Ministerial Association.

The presentation is the story of what happened in Marion, Ohio, when the religious forces of that town combined their efforts to bring a new strengthening of religious life to their community.

Mich. Minister Is Termed Ill By Pa. Police

Rev. Sebastiades May Get Mental Exam

A Michigan minister held on suspicion of stabbing his wife and leaving her in their burning car may be released by Pennsylvania State Police for hospital treatment in Detroit.

Trooper Harry Rook of the Bedford State Police detachment said Rev. Philemon Sebastiades, 59-year-old pastor of St. George's Greek Orthodox Church in Lincoln Park, is "obviously ill."

Police said they may release Rev. Sebastiades on a detainer in order to allow him to be taken to Detroit for treatment. He is now under treatment for burns and shock at Bedford County Memorial Hospital.

The minister's wife, Mrs. Zambei Sebastiades, 50, was found lying near their burning car Saturday night with stab wounds in the abdomen. The car had been parked in a small quarry off Route 126 near Breezewood.

Police said they found her husband two miles away, trying to hitch a ride. At the hospital, the clergyman slashed his wrists with a broken glass. Police later posted a guard with him.

Mrs. Sebastiades told police her husband stabbed her in what she thought was an attempt at murder and suicide. She said, there had been no argument.

Police said a board of psychiatrists probably will have to determine Rev. Sebastiades' mental state if he is to remain in Bedford County. Members of the family reportedly said he is "definitely in a state of mental upset."

Safety Committee Considers Report

Drivers Must Notify DMV Of Address Changes

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP) — Thomas B. R. Mudd, the state's Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, today reminded owners of automobiles that they are supposed to notify his department when they move.

His plea is in connection with preparations for issuing new license plates early in 1952. The Department sends out applications for new license plates to the addresses shown on auto registrations. Last year the Post Office had to return 30,000 applications because the car owners had moved.

The law requires that the Department be notified within 30 days after a change of address. This also applies to holders of drivers. licenses.

Venezuela in 1950 supplied 63 per cent of U. S. crude petroleum imports.

Kendall Notes Capital Gains Tax Law Change

Inequity Stricken From Measure

Relief for home owners from an inequity in the capital gains tax law is provided in new tax legislation signed into law by President Truman, Edgar A. Kendall, president of the Cumberland Real Estate Board, said last night.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards had urged this basic change in the law for years. The association supported and suggested refining amendments introduced by Rep. Aime J. Forand (D-R. I.), Kendall added.

Taxed Any Increase

The old law taxed as a capital gain any increase in value over the original purchase price of an owner-occupied home which was sold or traded by the owner for another home to be occupied by him.

Under the new law it is provided that when the sale of the taxpayer's principal residence is followed within a year by the purchase of a substitute, or when a substitute is bought within a year prior to the sale, gain is to be recognized only to the extent that the selling price of the old home exceeds the cost of the new.

Point Illustrated

Thus, if a dwelling purchased in 1940 for $10,000 was sold or traded in 1951 for $15,000, there would have been a taxable gain of $5,000 under the old law. Under the new law no portion of the gain is taxable provided a substitute "principal residence" is bought within the time limit for $15,000 or more. If the replacement cost is less than $15,000, say $14,000, the amount taxable as gain is $1,000.

Kendall explained that if the residence is part of business property, as in the case of an apartment over a store building or a home on a farm, and the entire property is sold, the provision applies only to that part used as a residence, including the environs and outbuildings relating to the dwelling but not those relating to the business operations.

Benefits of the new law apply to the sale of an owner's home made after December 31, 1950.

Milk Production In October Hits 215 Tons

Raines' Holstein Boasts Top Yield

Cows on the 29 area dairy farms checked in the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association survey produced a total of more than 215 tons of milk in October, Supervisors Wheeler W. Arnold and Harry E. Miller reported yesterday.

The supervisor's report disclosed that the 29 farms contain 783 cows, of which 172 were dry during October. The total production included 430,000 pounds of milk and 17,695 pounds of butterfat.

94 Pounds On Top

Last month's butterfat queen in the association was Bunny Lois, a grade Holstein owned by Lester Raines, RFD 2, which produced 94 pounds of butterfat in a total yield of 2,190 pounds of milk.

Second-ranking cow in butterfat yield was Brownie, a grade Guernsey owned by Paul E. Greise, Mason Road, with 87 pounds of butterfat in a production of 1,550 pounds of milk.

Seven Farms

Seven different farms are represented in the list of the 12 biggest butterfat producers. The reason for 12 on the honor roll is that four cows were tied for ninth place, with 62 pounds each. Normally, only the top ten producers are listed.

Of the 12 top cows, seven are Holsteins, four Guernseys and one Ayrshire.

Raines not only had the top producer, but other of his cows ranked third and tied for ninth. Greise, Carl W. Garland and Sons, Buffalo Mills, Pa., and Brinker Brothers, Springfield, W. Va., each had two cows on the select list.

The other three farms on the honor roll are John T. Mason, Cresaptown; Marshall R. Porter, RFD 2, Frostburg, and Potomac State School Farm, Keyser, W. Va.

Mich. Minister Is Termed Ill By Pa. Police

Rev. Sebastiades May Get Mental Exam

A Michigan minister held on suspicion of stabbing his wife and leaving her in their burning car may be released by Pennsylvania State Police for hospital treatment in Detroit.

Trooper Harry Rook of the Bedford State Police detachment said Rev. Philemon Sebastiades, 59-year-old pastor of St. George's Greek Orthodox Church in Lincoln Park, is "obviously ill."

Police said they may release Rev. Sebastiades on a detainer in order to allow him to be taken to Detroit for treatment. He is now under treatment for burns and shock at Bedford County Memorial Hospital.

The minister's wife, Mrs. Zambei Sebastiades, 50, was found lying near their burning car Saturday night with stab wounds in the abdomen. The car had been parked in a small quarry off Route 126 near Breezewood.

Police said they found her husband two miles away, trying to hitch a ride. At the hospital, the clergyman slashed his wrists with a broken glass. Police later posted a guard with him.

Mrs. Sebastiades told police her husband stabbed her in what she thought was an attempt at murder and suicide. She said, there had been no argument.

Police said a board of psychiatrists probably will have to determine Rev. Sebastiades' mental state if he is to remain in Bedford County. Members of the family reportedly said he is "definitely in a state of mental upset."

Drivers Must Notify DMV Of Address Changes

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP) — Thomas B. R. Mudd, the state's Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, today reminded owners of automobiles that they are supposed to notify his department when they move.

His plea is in connection with preparations for issuing new license plates early in 1952. The Department sends out applications for new license plates to the addresses shown on auto registrations. Last year the Post Office had to return 30,000 applications because the car owners had moved.

The law requires that the Department be notified within 30 days after a change of address. This also applies to holders of drivers licenses.

Venezuela in 1950 supplied 63 per cent of U. S. crude petroleum imports.

The UN Assembly Meets

The UN Assembly meeting in Paris, which opened Tuesday, could be assigned the organization's most important task thus far: the establishment of peace in Korea. With UN and Chinese Communist-North Korean truce teams apparently close to agreement on a cease-fire line, the time may be near for considering final peace arrangements.

Other United States objectives at the Paris meeting were outlined by Assistant Secretary of State Hickerson in a speech in New York on United Nations Day. In addition to Korea, Hickerson listed as problems in which the United States has a vital interest: Collective Security, Palestine, Armaments, Human Rights, Aid to Underdeveloped Countries, Land Reform, Cartels, the progress of Dependent Peoples.

"The agenda for the sixth session," according to Hickerson "now contains more than 60 items and there may be as many as 80 by the time the Assembly opens on November 6." Moreover, the United States is reported ready to present a specific plan for ending the cold war.

The United States is known to be interested also in the bid of Italy for admission to the UN. Russia has repeatedly used its veto in the Security Council against such admission. But Italy holds that on this issue the Soviet vetoes are illegal, and that the Assembly has the right to consider the Italian application as being recommended by the Council.

In view of the continued tension in the Middle East, the United States is expected to take a firm stand on at least two issues scheduled to be brought up by Egypt. The Cairo government is expected to argue that the present status of Libya is no more than one of a British puppet state. With other Moslem support, Egypt is expected to argue also for independence of Morocco from French rule. Egypt may, too, switch discussion of its disagreement with Britain from the Security Council to the Assembly.

Technically, the fifth session of the General Assembly was to remain in session until just prior to the opening of the sixth session in Paris on Tuesday. Delegates chose Paris as a meeting site because for most of them it was cheaper. However, the French delegation agreed only when the body voted to meet only after the general election in France and to bear part of the host country's expenses.

At a special convocation during its technical "recess" the General Assembly on January 30 adopted a resolution branding Red China as the aggressor nation in Korea. The vote was 44 for to 7 against, with 8 abstentions and Saudi Arabia unwilling either to vote or to be listed as abstaining. The Assembly on May 18 voted an arms embargo against China.

In its regular session the Assembly adopted the Acheson plan for Assembly consideration of cases of threatened aggression deadlocked in the Security Council—approved a merger of committee work on atomic weapons and disarmament—voted independence for Libya—approved union of Eritrea with Ethiopia—revoked a formal boycott of Spain—condemned Bulgaria, Hungary, Rumania for violating peace treaty guarantees on human rights—set up a committee to negotiate for UN trusteeship over Southwest Africa — admitted Indonesia as the 60th UN member—voted for redrafting the projected treaty on freedom of information.

Farm Prices And Votes

"The farmer votes for the party in power when farm prices are high, against it when farm prices are low," is an adage frequently heard from politicians of both parties. It isn't necessarily true.

Take 1946, when the Republicans won control of both houses of Congress away from the Democrats for the first time in a dozen years. Most farm prices were high and going higher. Two weeks before the election, wheat was selling on the farm at an average price of $1.88 after a slump in mid-summer. Corn, at $1.69, was high, even though lower than its record high in July. And hog prices were going up all the time. Farm income for the year was 25 per cent higher than two years before.

Or take 1948, when Truman was elected and the Democrats regained control of Congress. Wheat was at $1.98 just before Election Day but had been higher recently. Corn, at $1.38, was skidding. So were hogs. However, net farm income for the year was 20 per cent higher than in 1946.

In 1950, when the Democrats held on to Congressional control although losing some seats, net farm income for the year was 22½ per cent lower than in 1948. Farm prices, low for the most of the year, were on the rise by Election Day. But wheat had gone only to $1.91, corn to $1.37, hogs to $19.20.

The point is, of course, that the farmer's pocketbook is affected not only by the prices of what he sells, but also by the prices of what he buys, including farm labor, and by the volume of his production. And while he thinks of course of his pocketbook (and bank balance) as he prepares to vote, he thinks also, as the above record shows, of other considerations in deciding for or against the party in power.

Kremlin's Peace Idea

The great trouble in trying for an understanding with Russia is that so many Communists hold war inevitable between Communist and non-Communist states. At least, this was one theory of Karl Marx, although that founder of Communist thought put forth so many theories in his lifetime that almost any one of them can be contradicted by another.

Marx taught that "capitalist" states would necessarily try to grab new territory in order to find additional markets for their expanding productivity. Lenin, Marx's successor, predicted that the capitalist states would try to kill two birds with one stone by making war on Communist states at the same time.

Lenin followed Marx also in insisting that the "economic imperialists" would use force rather than give up their power voluntarily. Lenin wrote:

"International imperialism . . . could under no circumstances, under no possible conditions, live side by side with the Soviet republics."

On the other hand, Stalin has declared many times that peace is possible between the Communist world and the non-Communist world. He told Harold E. Stassen that in Moscow in 1947, and he wrote Henry A. Wallace much the same thing in 1948.

According to Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Malik in his radio broadcast of last June 23, his country assumes that Socialism and capitalism "could" exist side by side in peace. In that broadcast Malik cited a 1932 interview by Stalin picturing the Soviet government as "anxious" that war with the United States "should never under any circumstances arise." Perhaps the answer is that the Communists declare war inevitable whenever they think they could win it, avoidable whenever they suspect they would lose it.

How To Keep Well

Acth And Cortisone Appraisal

After a new drug has been tried thoroly by the public, it is likely to lose some of its original glamor, especially in this era when new medicines are being blazoned to the heavens. As for proof, look over the list of vitamins, enzymes, and patent medicines that have received more than their share of ballyhoo.

The hormones, ACTH and cortisone, also are beginning to fall into their proper niche. The stories that appeared when they were first introduced gave long lists of diseases against which they might work. There were rumors that the substances might even be cancer cures or the elixir of life. The demand was so great and the supply so small that special rules had to be established for their equitable distribution.

However, time has a way of solving many problems and today the use of these hormones has narrowed itself down to a relatively small percentage of ailments. Their influence in suitable cases still is excellent and sometime lifesaving. In addition, the pitfalls are better understood so that the hormones are less likely to be given indiscriminately. In other words, it has taken all this time to find out where we stand so far on this type of therapy but we still don't know what to expect 10, 15, or 20 years from now.

Among the disorders that respond amazingly to the hormones are acute inflammatory diseases of the eyes. These include iritis, shingles, keratitis, and sympathetic ophthalmia(in which blindness develops in one eye after injury, followed by a similar fate in the opposite, or good eye). Asthma, drug and serum reactions, and snakebite often show a marked response to small amounts of ACTH or cortisone over a short period of time. The same can be said of certain skin diseases such as dermatitis. Other maladies that respond well are ulcerative colitis, scleroderma, lupus erythematosus, and periarteritis nodosa.

Results in rheumatoid arthritis are well known but relief usually is temporary, particularly when the disease has reached the chronic stage. Now and then the conditions returns in more severe form when the medication is stopped, hence physicians are inclined to rely upon older remedies and reserve the hormones for special cases. This means that not every one with aches and pains should request this hormone treatment. The same can be said of acute rheumatic fever.

With the good comes the bad. There is a certain risk in giving ACTH or cortisone to individuals with a failing heart (except that caused by rheumatic fever), damaged kidneys, or a history of peptic ulcer. The worst catastrophes have occurred when the hormones were administered to individuals with acute infections, especially undiagnosed fevers and inflammatory processes such as tuberculosis that have not been completely evaluated. The remedies will lower temperature and give a feeling of well being but meanwhile the infection continues to progress and destroy the tissues like a worm inside a red apple. After the drug is discontinued, the disease may have advanced beyond the aid of medical science.

TOMORROW: The urge to self-destruction comes in various packages.

SCABIES

Mrs. L. writes: Does scabies ever develop into an epidemic? Our whole neighborhood seems to be affected.

REPLY

Yes. This condition is extremely contagious. Yours must be a chummy neighborhood unless "our whole neighborhood" is a slight exaggeration and you really mean that you have heard of two or three cases.

BEEF TAPEWORM

H. B. writes: In your article on beef tapeworm you speak of improperly cooked beef. Does this mean properly cooked beef. Does this mean rare?

REPLY

Yes. But the risk of becoming infested from rare beef is infinitely less than from eating improperly cooked pork.

CORTISONE EYE DROPS

B. H. writes: What are cortisone eye drops used for?

REPLY

For several conditions, including keratitis, allergic and chronic conjunctivitis, and iritis.

BLACKING OUT

J. W. writes: Are there cases of petit mal in which the patient does not lose consciousness but continues what he is doing in a slowed down manner? If he is speaking, for example, he seems to have to make an effort to continue.

REPLY

Yes, this is characteristic of the disease. The majority lost consciousness momentarily but may not appear in this state because they continue to move or act slowly, in the manner you describe.

ACTH IN COLITIS

B. N. writes: Will ACTH cure ulcerative colitis?

REPLY

No but it is reported to be a helpful adjunct to treatment, especially in the early stages.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Republicans Consider Eisenhower A Babe-In-The-Woods Politician; Ike Cut Ground Out From Under Sen. Duff; Facts Behind Disarmament Proposals

WASHINGTON—Republicans-for-Eisenhower heaved a big sigh of relief when their proposed candidate finally climbed on his plane and flew back to Paris. During the short time he was here, they estimated that their man had helped Senator Taft pick up about 100 additional delegates for the GOP nomination.

"He may be a great general," mourned one Republican active in the Eisenhower-for-President organization, "but he certainly is a babe-in-the-woods when it comes to politics."

What caused Eisenhower supporters to tear their hair was the way their man cut the ground out from under his chief backer with the statement that he hadn't heard from Sen. James Duff of Pennsylvania "directly or indirectly for a long, long time."

In the first place this was not true. For, earlier in the day, Ike's own aide, Lt. Col. Robert I. Schulz, had phoned Senator Duff from Louisville. He phoned around Sunday noon, and Eisenhower's disclaimer to the press was Sunday afternoon.

Second, word was sent to Senator Duff two weeks before Eisenhower arrived that he was coming and to keep November 4, 5 and 6 open.

Third and more important, Duff had been waging a steady though quiet campaign to organize district leaders throughout the country and take delegates away from Taft. Last month, for instance, he made two speeches in North Carolina urging Eisenhower for President. Immediately following the two speeches, John Gordon Bennett, scion of the famed New York Herald editor, went to North Carolina, began the actual work of pledging delegates. Before he finished, he had pretty well undercut Taft. North Carolina looked safe for Ike.

Anguished Phone Calls

Most essential part of the Bennett-Duff sales talk, naturally, had to be that Eisenhower was a Republican, had given definite assurances that he would be a candidate, and would not leave his followers out on a limb. Without such assurances, no local politician wants to deal.

Imagine their horrified surprise, therefore, when local leaders read in the press that Eisenhower hadn't heard from Senator Duff "directly or indirectly for a long, long time."

Immediately long distance phone calls began coming in to Eisenhower lieutenants from various parts of the country.

"You said Jim Duff was masterminding the general's campaign," protested one North Carolina Republican. "How can he mastermind the campaign when he hasn't even been in touch with him? You said Duff had assurances Ike would run. But Ike says he hasn't heard from him.

"In view of that," continued the irate North Carolinian, "we're getting in touch with Dave Ingalls (Taft's campaign manager) as fast as we can. We've got to protect ourselves."

What the North Carolinian had in mind was the way Eisenhower rebuffed various Democrats who wanted to draft him in 1948, making them too late to catch the Truman bandwagon. Truman has never forgiven Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, Jimmy Roosevelt Sen. Olin Johnston of South Carolina and others who plumped for Ike. Republicans know this, and figure Taft might be just as vindictive as Truman.

Also what local politicians live for is patronage, and if a new Republican in the White House doesn't like them, they are out of luck on postmasters, U. S. marshals, tax collectors and everything else.

Those are some of the sordid but essential ABC's of politics which Eisenhower doesn't understand. Later he recovered part of his political fumble by announcing that he had had a phone conversation with Sen. Duff and invited him to visit him in Paris. But both Taft, Republican, and Truman, Democrat, are gleeful that the general came back to the U. S. They think that his brief words won them a lot of hay.

Royal Aftermath

Ladies of the press who almost swooned before the handsome Duke of Edinburgh last week are now back at work, but they haven't forgotten one remark made by a male colleague — Frank Van Der Linden of the Willmington, N. C., Star-News.

Moving through the press and radio reception, the duke observed women news reporters busily scrawling notes.

"Why is it," the duke asked Van Der Linden, "that the women are the only correspondents who write things down?"

"They can't remember a thing," Van Der Linden replied. "We men carry it up here."

Behind The Peace

Besides the genuine desire for peace, two key factors are behind the American disarmament proposals in Paris:

1. A report from U. S. Ambassador Allan Kirk, just returned from Moscow, that both Stalin and the politburo are suffering a case of war jitters, think the U. S. A. is ready for war, and that Russian should get the drop on us. Kirk warned that there is grave danger Russia may start war for this reason; therefore urged the President to be extremely careful about all public statements on Russia—at least until the war hysteria dies down.

2. The effective manner in which Russia has put across the idea that it is the real advocate of peace and that the United States is warmongering.

In Berlin last summer, this writer saw visual results of this propaganda. The blue and white flag of peace: the words paix, paz, mir, beke—peace in every language—were plastered all over East Berlin. Talking with both East German and West German youths, it was obvious that this propaganda had sunk home.

This was also true to some extent in more sophisticated but warweary France, England, Belgium Italy. We have been urging them to arm for possible war. They don't want war, and the Russians keep teling them they don't want war either. So many Europeans are inclined to believe that we are the warmongers.

That's one reason the present peace proposals at Paris—even if they fail—are so important, if only for propaganda reasons.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — He came, he talked, and he left the situation exactly where it was before he arrived—that is, General Eisenhower remains a potential but not an active candidate for the Presidency.

In the parlance of politics, in the tradition of public utterance in campaign years, there was one way that General Eisenhower could have eliminated himself completely from consideration—he could have said that he would not accept the Presidential nomination from either political party. He didn't say so.

But the General, with a frankness that was disarming, managed to leave with the political world the following impressions:

1. There will be no authorization of any boom or political activity so long as the general is in uniform.

2. There is not to be the slightest discouragement of those citizens who want to boom the general for either presidential nomination.

Date Not Set

3. At the "proper time" the general will speak for himself—saying whether or not he will accept a nomination or otherwise indicating whether or not he will run.

4. The "proper time" may never come if the general has to stay in Europe. For he has also said he would make no political statements while in his present post.

5. No definite date has been set for the relinquishment by General Eisenhower of his command but he points out it was originally set for a relatively brief period. He does not share the view that he is indispensable, which is only another way of saying that he feels he ought to be relieved in the not-far-distant future.

There's another impression which can be derived from the atmosphere of friendliness which enveloped President Truman's conference with General Eisenhower and the nature of the statements made afterward. It is that President Truman does not seem to mind the political speculation that surrounds General Eisenhower at the moment even though the latter is engaged in military service of the highest importance. One can well imagine under other circumstances the President reaching into his vocabulary of denunciatory phrases to berate those who attempt at a critical moment in history to undermine confidence in a great general by attributing to him political motives and so on.

Actually the possibility of General Eisenhower being boomed for President on the Republican ticket is not unwelcome to Mr. Truman if it puts a damper on the trend toward Taft. So long as the newspapers keep on talking about Eisenhower, while such Republican leaders as Governor Dewey and Senator Duff and others talk openly of their intention to support the general at the Republican National Convention, it makes for friction and maybe a split inside the Republican party—which doesn't annoy Mr. Truman at all.

Still In Politics

There is even the possibility that Mr. Truman showed marked cordiality to the general and tolerated all the political speculation that surrounded the visit because the President, for all he knows, may be urging the general next summer to run on the Democratic ticket if the Republicans pass him up at their convention.

General Eisenhower has managed with tact and good taste to ward off embarrassing questions and yet has managed to let everybody know that he could be persuaded to run for the Presidency. He didn't say why but anyone who is trying to consolidate Europe every day is likely to have more than an incidental interest in how earnest any possible candidate for the Presidency might be in furthering that cause. It could be that General Eisenhower may consider it his duty to run on a platform of international cooperation that goes beyond anything Senator Taft might be willing to accept.

Anyway, General Eisenhower is still in politics no matter how much he sincerely tries to postpone the day of decision as to an authorized candidacy.

A Feast For The Vultures?

CAIRO

Calm reigns now in Cairo. The brown wrapping paper which the street mobs, in a childish gesture of defiance, have wrapped around all signs in English, is coming loose already, and flapping idly in the wind. In the streets, the crowds go sullenly about their business.

Yet it is an oppressive sort of calm. A bejewelled Egyptian lady in the fashionable Gezira Sporting Club (where Egyptian ladies were formerly not allowed) remarks derisively: "I suppose you will be writing that the streets of Cairo are running in blood?" The Gezira Sporting Club is very comfortable, and there is no blood in the streets. But is there not a certain nervousness in her tone?

For, unless the best informed men here are wrong, it is quite possible that there will be blood in the streets, quite soon now. This is, in fact, the only real reason why the British garrison in the Canal Zone is being very heavily reinforced. Hardly more than a corporal's guard of British troops could hold the Canal Zone against anything the Egyptians have. Yet no one discounts the possibility that the Egyptian government may utterly lose control over the street mobs.

Real Nightmare

If this happens, the mobs will take over, killing and looting with the wolfish ferocity of which Egyptian mobs are capable. Against this possibility, plans have already been drawn up for moving the British Army into Cairo and Alexandria within a matter of hours. This is the real nightmare here—uncontrolled mass violence, followed by a British occupation of all Egypt, with unimaginable consequences throughout the whole Middle East.

"Oh, yes, it's coming," remarks one experienced diplomat here. "No one can say when, or what will start it, but it's coming all right. It will be very ugly indeed when the mobs take over." Another Westerner, who has spent his life here, disagrees. There will be a lot of noise, he says, but nothing very much will happen. Nothing very much ever happens.

No one, of course, really knows. But it is true that the mob scenes here some days ago looked like a rehearsal for something else. Not that there was much real violence. Very few people were hurt. On the surface, what happened seemed as silly as a town and gown riot in the bad old days in New Haven, Conn., and a good deal less lethal. Even so, the street mobs displayed something unknown in New Haven, Conn.—a mass hatred so strong and so bitter that you could almost smell it.

For the moment, this hatred is directed mainly against the British. And there should be no mistake about it—as of today, most Egyptians hate the very guts of the British. Yet hatred is volatile stuff, and it is not at all difficult to imagine a situation in which this hatred could be turned in another direction—inward, against the tiny minority of immensely wealthy, immensely irresponsible Pashas who sit on the top of the rotten and decaying Egyptian social system.

Deeply Popular Move

This is why the Egyptian government, owned body and soul by the Pashas, has used its whole authority to suppress further mob violence, under threat of ruthless retaliation. But how long will the government of Prime Minister Nahas Pasha be able to maintain its authority?

The Nahas government bought itself a new lease on life, just as King Farouk was about to dismiss it, by defying the British. There should be no mistake about this either—the abrogation of the treaty with the hated British was a deeply and genuinely popular move. Farouk could seem to oppose it only at the risk of his crown and his life. But the Nahas government has promised the mobs to get rid of the British, and there is no way the government can make good its promise. As this knowledge seeps down into the cafes and the bazars, the shadowy authority of the government may disintegrate.

This process of disintegration is already taking place. From the Communists, from the fanatical Moslem brotherhood, from all the ancient enemies of Nahas and his Waafdist party, the cry for "action" against the British is going up. Yet there is simply no action the government can take, aside from turning loose the mobs. And there is nothing the Pashas fear more, and with good reason.

Thus the government has opened Pandora's box. The lid has been slammed shut again, and the government is setting nervously on it. But there are those who believe that the box is sure to spring open again, that this time the mobs will really take over, and that there will be plenty of blood in the streets. Others believe that, given courage on the part of the King, and a little foresight for once in London and Washington, the bloodletting can be averted and the situation kept in hand.

Meanwhile, the vultures circle watchfully over the brown Nile, as they must have done in the days of the Pharaohs. No one really knows whether or not a feast is in store for them.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Competition For Peace

Few men have been driven into as awkward a situation by friends and supporters as General Eisenhower. His present work of global defense against communism is so important that anything that interferes with or hinders that runs counter to his life and apparent ambitions.

But his friends are pushing him too hard. They are forcing upon him alternatives he ought not now, in his present situation, be made to face, namely that he run as a candidate for the Presidency in the supreme command of NATO. Eisenhower must make a success of NATO or his career becomes meaningless. It is not good enough to suggest that France and other countries are failing to do their job and that therefore he might abandon NATO. He must build his forces or the American program of relations with Russia and Europe must be entirely revised.

The situation in which Winston Churchill finds himself is that he must restore to Great Britain the trade position in international affairs which the Socialists lost. Churchill will seek a way to peace, which for Great Britain means the role as middleman between the United States and Soviet Russia.

There is no telling what that will do to NATO. Eisenhower may find that he is not the supreme commander of an international army but the commander of a small American force stationed in the outpost of Western Europe. In that case, his present role would be seriously reduced if not vitiated.

There is a menace in this situation to the United States, namely that Winston Churchill and Harry Truman will enter into a competition for what they will politically call, peace. Programs for disarmament and for peace are always popular, particularly after periods of war and during periods of high taxes due to past wars and in preparation for future wars.

Therefore such a competition between Winston Churchill and Harry Truman in the interest of peace will make considerable headway in both countries. The menace is that such a program may be nothing but an appeasement of Stalin. It may result in a recognition of Stalin's aims in Asia and give him a victor's position with the masses of Europe. To the victor goes the spoils. In Europe, certainly the prestige of victory would go to Stalin.

This may be the only solution for a very difficult situation and it will need study as it proceeds. But this article can deal only with one phase of the problem, namely, the emergence of Churchill as leader of Western Europe and the inevitable reduction of the importance of Eisenhower's position as supreme commander of NATO.

As the situation grows increasingly political rather than military, the British premier rather than the American soldier will take first place. The British program of trade rather than the American program of containment will prevail.

President Truman made the error on June 25 of accepting Malik's truce proposal for Korea. He leaped into this picture without even pursuing the normal steps toward a truce. The result was that during the early stages of the Kaesong negotiations, the impression prevailed, particularly in Asia, that the United States was pleading with North Korea and Soviet China for an armistice.

Impetuosity commands a price, even if the intention is to find a road to peace and to save human life. The present contest between President Truman and Premier Churchill to find a formula for peace with Stalin, while virtuous in intent, will strengthen Stalin, weaken Eisenhower's efforts to build NATO and may not achieve a better peace than we now have.

The Russians favor peace, too. But it is a victor's peace they want. Their program is the present status quo from which they can consolidate their position and proceed further. In fact, peace can do more for Russia than a great victory in war. For in the achievement of such a victory by war, Russia would have to destroy the factories and mills and machines that can supply her with needed goods, whereas peace with Churchill will be a tradesman's peace, a buyers' and sellers' peace.

Eisenhower's difficulty is that which every soldier has to face in dealing with politicians who need slogans for re-election. Harry Truman removed General Douglas MacArthur in the hope that that act would end the Korean War. He is now diddling with Eisenhower's NATO to compete with Churchill in presenting a peace program to Stalin.

The UN Assembly Meets

The UN Assembly meeting in Paris, which opened Tuesday, could be assigned the organization's most important task thus far: the establishment of peace in Korea. With UN and Chinese Communist-North Korean truce teams apparently close to agreement on a cease-fire line, the time may be near for considering final peace arrangements.

Other United States objectives at the Paris meeting were outlined by Assistant Secretary of State Hickerson in a speech in New York on United Nations Day. In addition to Korea, Hickerson listed as problems in which the United States has a vital interest: Collective Security, Palestine, Armaments, Human Rights, Aid to Underdeveloped Countries, Land Reform, Cartels, the progress of Dependent Peoples.

"The agenda for the sixth session," according to Hickerson "now contains more than 60 items and there may be as many as 80 by the time the Assembly opens on November 6." Moreover, the United States is reported ready to present a specific plan for ending the cold war.

The United States is known to be interested also in the bid of Italy for admission to the UN. Russia has repeatedly used its veto in the Security Council against such admission. But Italy holds that on this issue the Soviet vetoes are illegal, and that the Assembly has the right to consider the Italian application as being recommended by the Council.

In view of the continued tension in the Middle East, the United States is expected to take a firm stand on at least two issues scheduled to be brought up by Egypt. The Cairo government is expected to argue that the present status of Libya is no more than one of a British puppet state. With other Moslem support, Egypt is expected to argue also for independence of Morocco from French rule. Egypt may, too, switch discussion of its disagreement with Britain from the Security Council to the Assembly.

Technically, the fifth session of the General Assembly was to remain in session until just prior to the opening of the sixth session in Paris on Tuesday. Delegates chose Paris as a meeting site because for most of them it was cheaper. However, the French delegation agreed only when the body voted to meet only after the general election in France and to bear part of the host country's expenses.

At a special convocation during its technical "recess" the General Assembly on January 30 adopted a resolution branding Red China as the aggressor nation in Korea. The vote was 44 for to 7 against, with 8 abstentions and Saudi Arabia unwilling either to vote or to be listed as abstaining. The Assembly on May 18 voted an arms embargo against China.

In its regular session the Assembly adopted the Acheson plan for Assembly consideration of cases of threatened aggression deadlocked in the Security Council—approved a merger of committee work on atomic weapons and disarmament—voted independence for Libya—approved union of Eritrea with Ethiopia—revoked a formal boycott of Spain—condemned Bulgaria, Hungary, Rumania for violating peace treaty guarantees on human rights—set up a committee to negotiate for UN trusteeship over Southwest Africa — admitted Indonesia as the 60th UN member—voted for redrafting the projected treaty on freedom of information.

Farm Prices And Votes

"The farmer votes for the party in power when farm prices are high, against it when farm prices are low," is an adage frequently heard from politicians of both parties. It isn't necessarily true.

Take 1946, when the Republicans won control of both houses of Congress away from the Democrats for the first time in a dozen years. Most farm prices were high and going higher. Two weeks before the election, wheat was selling on the farm at an average price of $1.88 after a slump in mid-summer. Corn, at $1.69, was high, even though lower than its record high in July. And hog prices were going up all the time. Farm income for the year was 25 per cent higher than two years before.

Or take 1948, when Truman was elected and the Democrats regained control of Congress. Wheat was at $1.98 just before Election Day but had been higher recently. Corn, at $1.38, was skidding. So were hogs. However, net farm income for the year was 20 per cent higher than in 1946.

In 1950, when the Democrats held on to Congressional control although losing some seats, net farm income for the year was 22½ per cent lower than in 1948. Farm prices, low for the most of the year, were on the rise by Election Day. But wheat had gone only to $1.91, corn to $1.37, hogs to $19.20.

The point is, of course, that the farmer's pocketbook is affected not only by the prices of what he sells, but also by the prices of what he buys, including farm labor, and by the volume of his production. And while he thinks of course of his pocketbook (and bank balance) as he prepares to vote, he thinks also, as the above record shows, of other considerations in deciding for or against the party in power.

Kremlin's Peace Idea

The great trouble in trying for an understanding with Russia is that so many Communists hold war inevitable between Communist and non-Communist states. At least, this was one theory of Karl Marx, although that founder of Communist thought put forth so many theories in his lifetime that almost any one of them can be contradicted by another.

Marx taught that "capitalist" states would necessarily try to grab new territory in order to find additional markets for their expanding productivity. Lenin, Marx's successor, predicted that the capitalist states would try to kill two birds with one stone by making war on Communist states at the same time.

Lenin followed Marx also in insisting that the "economic imperialists" would use force rather than give up their power voluntarily. Lenin wrote:

"International imperialism . . . could under no circumstances, under no possible conditions, live side by side with the Soviet republics."

On the other hand, Stalin has declared many times that peace is possible between the Communist world and the non-Communist world. He told Harold E. Stassen that in Moscow in 1947, and he wrote Henry A. Wallace much the same thing in 1948.

According to Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Malik in his radio broadcast of last June 23, his country assumes that socialism and capitalism "could" exist side by side in peace. In that broadcast Malik cited a 1932 interview by Stalin picturing the Soviet government as "anxious" that war with the United States "should never under any circumstances arise." Perhaps the answer is that the Communists declare war inevitable whenever they think they could win it, avoidable whenever they suspect they would lose it.

How To Keep Well

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Acth And Cortisone Appraisal

After a new drug has been tried thoroly by the public, it is likely to lose some of its original glamor, especially in this era when new medicines are being blazoned to the heavens. As for proof, look over the list of vitamins, enzymes, and patent medicines that have received more than their share of ballyhoo.

The hormones, ACTH and cortisone, also are beginning to fall into their proper niche. The stories that appeared when they were first introduced gave long lists of diseases against which they might work. There were rumors that the substances might even be cancer cures or the elixir of life. The demand was so great and the supply so small that special rules had to be established for their equitable distribution.

However, time has a way of solving many problems and today the use of these hormones has narrowed itself down to a relatively small percentage of ailments. Their influence in suitable cases still is excellent and sometime lifesaving. In addition, the pitfalls are better understood so that the hormones are less likely to be given indiscriminately. In other words, it has taken all this time to find out where we stand so far on this type of therapy but we still don't know what to expect 10, 15, or 20 years from now.

Among the disorders that respond amazingly to the hormones are acute inflammatory diseases of the eyes. These include iritis, shingles, keratitis, and sympathetic ophthalmia(in which blindness develops in one eye after injury, followed by a similar fate in the opposite, or good eye). Asthma, drug and serum reactions, and snakebite often show a marked response to small amounts of ACTH or cortisone over a short period of time. The same can be said of certain skin diseases such as dermatitis. Other maladies that respond well are ulcerative colitis, scleroderma, lupus erythematosus, and periarteritis nodosa.

Results in rheumatoid arthritis are well known but relief usually is temporary, particularly when the disease has reached the chronic stage. Now and then the conditions returns in more severe form when the medication is stopped, hence physicians are inclined to rely upon older remedies and reserve the hormones for special cases. This means that not every one with aches and pains should request this hormone treatment. The same can be said of acute rheumatic fever.

With the good comes the bad. There is a certain risk in giving ACTH or cortisone to individuals with a failing heart (except that caused by rheumatic fever), damaged kidneys, or a history of peptic ulcer. The worst catastrophes have occurred when the hormones were administered to individuals with acute infections, especially undiagnosed fevers and inflammatory processes such as tuberculosis that have not been completely evaluated. The remedies will lower temperature and give a feeling of well being but meanwhile the infection continues to progress and destroy the tissues like a worm inside a red apple. After the drug is discontinued, the disease may have advanced beyond the aid of medical science.

TOMORROW: The urge to self-destruction comes in various packages.

Yes. This condition is extremely contagious. Yours must be a chummy neighborhood unless "our whole neighborhood" is a slight exaggeration and you really mean that you have heard of two or three cases.

BEEF TAPEWORM

Yes. But the risk of becoming infested from rare beef is infinitely less than from eating improperly cooked pork.

For several conditions, including keratitis, allergic and chronic conjunctivitis, and iritis.

Yes, this is characteristic of the disease. The majority lost consciousness momentarily but may not appear in this state because they continue to move or act slowly, in the manner you describe.

No but it is reported to be a helpful adjunct to treatment, especially in the early stages.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Republicans Consider Eisenhower A Babe-In-The-Woods Politician; Ike Cut Ground Out From Under Sen. Duff; Facts Behind Disarmament Proposals

WASHINGTON—Republicans-for-Eisenhower heaved a big sigh of relief when their proposed candidate finally climbed on his plane and flew back to Paris. During the short time he was here, they estimated that their man had helped Senator Taft pick up about 100 additional delegates for the GOP nomination.

"He may be a great general," mourned one Republican active in the Eisenhower-for-President organization, "but he certainly is a babe-in-the-woods when it comes to politics."

What caused Eisenhower supporters to tear their hair was the way their man cut the ground out from under his chief backer with the statement that he hadn't heard from Sen. James Duff of Pennsylvania "directly or indirectly for a long, long time."

In the first place this was not true. For, earlier in the day, Ike's own aide, Lt. Col. Robert I. Schulz, had phoned Senator Duff from Louisville. He phoned around Sunday noon, and Eisenhower's disclaimer to the press was Sunday afternoon.

Second, word was sent to Senator Duff two weeks before Eisenhower arrived that he was coming and to keep November 4, 5 and 6 open.

Third and more important, Duff had been waging a steady though quiet campaign to organize district leaders throughout the country and take delegates away from Taft. Last month, for instance, he made two speeches in North Carolina urging Eisenhower for President. Immediately following the two speeches, John Gordon Bennett, scion of the famed New York Herald editor, went to North Carolina, began the actual work of pledging delegates. Before he finished, he had pretty well undercut Taft. North Carolina looked safe for Ike.

Anguished Phone Calls

Most essential part of the Bennett-Duff sales talk, naturally, had to be that Eisenhower was a Republican, had given definite assurances that he would be a candidate, and would not leave his followers out on a limb. Without such assurances, no local politician wants to deal.

Imagine their horrified surprise, therefore, when local leaders read in the press that Eisenhower hadn't heard from Senator Duff "directly or indirectly for a long, long time."

Immediately long distance phone calls began coming in to Eisenhower lieutenants from various parts of the country.

"You said Jim Duff was masterminding the general's campaign," protested one North Carolina Republican. "How can he mastermind the campaign when he hasn't even been in touch with him? You said Duff had assurances Ike would run. But Ike says he hasn't heard from him.

"In view of that," continued the irate North Carolinian, "we're getting in touch with Dave Ingalls (Taft's campaign manager) as fast as we can. We've got to protect ourselves."

What the North Carolinian had in mind was the way Eisenhower rebuffed various Democrats who wanted to draft him in 1948, making them too late to catch the Truman bandwagon. Truman has never forgiven Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, Jimmy Roosevelt Sen. Olin Johnston of South Carolina and others who plumped for Ike. Republicans know this, and figure Taft might be just as vindictive as Truman.

Also what local politicians live for is patronage, and if a new Republican in the White House doesn't like them, they are out of luck on postmasters, U. S. marshals, tax collectors and everything else.

Those are some of the sordid but essential ABC's of politics which Eisenhower doesn't understand. Later he recovered part of his political fumble by announcing that he had had a phone conversation with Sen. Duff and invited him to visit him in Paris. But both Taft, Republican, and Truman, Democrat, are gleeful that the general came back to the U. S. They think that his brief words won them a lot of hay.

Royal Aftermath

Ladies of the press who almost swooned before the handsome Duke of Edinburgh last week are now back at work, but they haven't forgotten one remark made by a male colleague — Frank Van Der Linden of the Willmington, N. C., Star-News.

Moving through the press and radio reception, the duke observed women news reporters busily scrawling notes.

"Why is it," the duke asked Van Der Linden, "that the women are the only correspondents who write things down?"

"They can't remember a thing," Van Der Linden replied. "We men carry it up here."

Behind The Peace

Besides the genuine desire for peace, two key factors are behind the American disarmament proposals in Paris:

1. A report from U. S. Ambassador Allan Kirk, just returned from Moscow, that both Stalin and the politburo are suffering a case of war jitters, think the U. S. A. is ready for war, and that Russian should get the drop on us. Kirk warned that there is grave danger Russia may start war for this reason; therefore urged the President to be extremely careful about all public statements on Russia—at least until the war hysteria dies down.

2. The effective manner in which Russia has put across the idea that it is the real advocate of peace and that the United States is warmongering.

In Berlin last summer, this writer saw visual results of this propaganda. The blue and white flag of peace: the words paix, paz, mir, beke—peace in every language—were plastered all over East Berlin. Talking with both East German and West German youths, it was obvious that this propaganda had sunk home.

This was also true to some extent in more sophisticated but war-weary France, England, Belgium Italy. We have been urging them to arm for possible war. They don't want war, and the Russians keep telling them they don't want war either. So many Europeans are inclined to believe that we are the warmongers.

That's one reason the present peace proposals at Paris—even if they fail—are so important, if only for propaganda reasons.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — He came, he talked, and he left the situation exactly where it was before he arrived—that is, General Eisenhower remains a potential but not an active candidate for the Presidency.

In the parlance of politics, in the tradition of public utterance in campaign years, there was one way that General Eisenhower could have eliminated himself completely from consideration—he could have said that he would not accept the Presidential nomination from either political party. He didn't say so.

But the General, with a frankness that was disarming, managed to leave with the political world the following impressions:

1. There will be no authorization of any boom or political activity so long as the general is in uniform.

2. There is not to be the slightest discouragement of those citizens who want to boom the general for either presidential nomination.

Date Not Set

3. At the "proper time" the general will speak for himself—saying whether or not he will accept a nomination or otherwise indicating whether or not he will run.

4. The "proper time" may never come if the general has to stay in Europe. For he has also said he would make no political statements while in his present post.

5. No definite date has been set for the relinquishment by General Eisenhower of his command but he points out it was originally set for a relatively brief period. He does not share the view that he is indispensable, which is only another way of saying that he feels he ought to be relieved in the not-far-distant future.

There's another impression which can be derived from the atmosphere of friendliness which enveloped President Truman's conference with General Eisenhower and the nature of the statements made afterward. It is that President Truman does not seem to mind the political speculation that surrounds General Eisenhower at the moment even though the latter is engaged in military service of the highest importance. One can well imagine under other circumstances the President reaching into his vocabulary of denunciatory phrases to berate those who attempt at a critical moment in history to undermine confidence in a great general by attributing to him political motives and so on.

Actually the possibility of General Eisenhower being boomed for President on the Republican ticket is not unwelcome to Mr. Truman if it puts a damper on the trend toward Taft. So long as the newspapers keep on talking about Eisenhower, while such Republican leaders as Governor Dewey and Senator Duff and others talk openly of their intention to support the general at the Republican National Convention, it makes for friction and maybe a split inside the Republican party—which doesn't annoy Mr. Truman at all.

Still In Politics

There is even the possibility that Mr. Truman showed marked cordiality to the general and tolerated all the political speculation that surrounded the visit because the President, for all he knows, may be urging the general next summer to run on the Democratic ticket if the Republicans pass him up at their convention.

General Eisenhower has managed with tact and good taste to ward off embarrassing questions and yet has managed to let everybody know that he could be persuaded to run for the Presidency. He didn't say why but anyone who is trying to consolidate Europe every day is likely to have more than an incidental interest in how earnest any possible candidate for the Presidency might be in furthering that cause. It could be that General Eisenhower may consider it his duty to run on a platform of international cooperation that goes beyond anything Senator Taft might be willing to accept.

Anyway, General Eisenhower is still in politics no matter how much he sincerely tries to postpone the day of decision as to an authorized candidacy.

Thus the government has opened Pandora's box. The lid has been slammed shut again, and the government is setting nervously on it. But there are those who believe that the box is sure to spring open again, that this time the mobs will really take over, and that there will be plenty of blood in the streets. Others believe that, given courage on the part of the King, and a little foresight for once in London and Washington, the bloodletting can be averted and the situation kept in hand.

Meanwhile, the vultures circle watchfully over the brown Nile, as they must have done in the days of the Pharaohs. No one really knows whether or not a feast is in store for them.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Competition For Peace

Few men have been driven into as awkward a situation by friends and supporters as General Eisenhower. His present work of global defense against communism is so important that anything that interferes with or hinders that runs counter to his life and apparent ambitions.

But his friends are pushing him too hard. They are forcing upon him alternatives he ought not now, in his present situation, be made to face, namely that he run as a candidate for the Presidency in the supreme command of NATO. Eisenhower must make a success of NATO or his career becomes meaningless. It is not good enough to suggest that France and other countries are failing to do their job and that therefore he might abandon NATO. He must build his forces or the American program of relations with Russia and Europe must be entirely revised.

The situation in which Winston Churchill finds himself is that he must restore to Great Britain the trade position in international affairs which the Socialists lost. Churchill will seek a way to peace, which for Great Britain means the role as middleman between the United States and Soviet Russia.

There is no telling what that will do to NATO. Eisenhower may find that he is not the supreme commander of an international army but the commander of a small American force stationed in the outpost of Western Europe. In that case, his present role would be seriously reduced if not vitiated.

There is a menace in this situation to the United States, namely that Winston Churchill and Harry Truman will enter into a competition for what they will politically call, peace. Programs for disarmament and for peace are always popular, particularly after periods of war and during periods of high taxes due to past wars and in preparation for future wars.

Therefore such a competition between Winston Churchill and Harry Truman in the interest of peace will make considerable headway in both countries. The menace is that such a program may be nothing but an appeasement of Stalin. It may result in a recognition of Stalin's aims in Asia and give him a victor's position with the masses of Europe. To the victor goes the spoils. In Europe, certainly the prestige of victory would go to Stalin.

This may be the only solution for a very difficult situation and it will need study as it proceeds. But this article can deal only with one phase of the problem, namely, the emergence of Churchill as leader of Western Europe and the inevitable reduction of the importance of Eisenhower's position as supreme commander of NATO.

As the situation grows increasingly political rather than military, the British premier rather than the American soldier will take first place. The British program of trade rather than the American program of containment will prevail.

President Truman made the error on June 25 of accepting Malik's truce proposal for Korea. He leaped into this picture without even pursuing the normal steps toward a truce. The result was that during the early stages of the Kaesong negotiations, the impression prevailed, particularly in Asia, that the United States was pleading with North Korea and Soviet China for an armistice.

Impetuosity commands a price, even if the intention is to find a road to peace and to save human life. The present contest between President Truman and Premier Churchill to find a formula for peace with Stalin, while virtuous in intent, will strengthen Stalin, weaken Eisenhower's efforts to build NATO and may not achieve a better peace than we now have.

The Russians favor peace, too. But it is a victor's peace they want. Their program is the present status quo from which they can consolidate their position and proceed further. In fact, peace can do more for Russia than a great victory in war. For in the achievement of such a victory by war, Russia would have to destroy the factories and mills and machines that can supply her with needed goods, whereas peace with Churchill will be a tradesman's peace, a buyers' and sellers' peace.

Eisenhower's difficulty is that which every soldier has to face in dealing with politicians who need slogans for re-election. Harry Truman removed General Douglas MacArthur in the hope that that act would end the Korean War. He is now diddling with Eisenhower's NATO to compete with Churchill in presenting a peace program to Stalin.

Umble Favored In Damage Suit

A jury in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday deliberated about an hour and returned a verdict in favor of the defendant in a suit resulting from an auto accident brought by Henry Gassaway Shores, Keyser attorney.

The jury returned a verdict of $93.84 in favor of Orvil F. Umble, Route 1, Smithfield, Pa., and the Emmco Insurance Company.

Shores and the insurance firm had filed suit against Charles W. Smith, Oldtown, for $1,000. Umble later filed a cross-suit for $93.84.

The case stemmed from an accident March 25 on McMullen Highway near Rawlings when Shores' was in collision with a truck operated by Smith and owned by Umble.

Smith and Umble testified that the rear signal device was flashed for a left hand turn as they were traveling north on Route 220. They stated that Shores' auto crashed into the rear of their truck, but that their vehicle was able to be driven away under its own power.

Shores contended that he was driving in a proper manner north on Route 220 and was preparing to pass the truck when it suddenly veered to the left, causing the crash.

Smith and Umble were represented by Edward J. Ryan and Shores had William H. Geppert as his counsel.

Judge Morgan C. Harris presided.

here are the FACTS about DOG FOOD

Confused about what to feed your dog?
Wondering how much to pay?

Many claims and counterclaims are directed at dog owners today. The makers of Rival Dog Food want to discuss these claims frankly with millions of present and future Rival users.

"HOW MUCH SHALL I PAY?" You see dog foods priced lower than Rival. You see many priced higher. If you pay less, ask yourself: "Is this true economy? Will I be gambling with my dog's health—will I be forced to supplement his diet, resulting in a higher cost per feeding, with a waste of time and effort?"

If you pay more—are you really giving your dog more in those food elements which insure his health? The answer is simple: Rival supplies—in its balanced formula—every element needed by your dog for perfect health! Every one of the 679,416,552 cans of Rival already sold proves that a quality dog food need not be expensive!

ALL-MEAT—OR BALANCED BLEND? Make no mistake—Rival contains plenty of meat. But Rival's meat content has been enhanced in feeding effectiveness by choice grains, rich in body-building, energy-maintaining food elements, precious natural vitamins and minerals. It simply is not necessary to add a single thing to a dog's diet if he is fed Rival. Yes, Rival alone will keep him in tip-top condition!

Rival blends meat and other ingredients under strict laboratory control; conducts scientific feeding tests in its own kennels. The makers of Rival devote all their time, facilities and resources to the canning of Rival Dog Food, with the single purpose of feeding your dog correctly!

RIVAL IS THE ANSWER—So—before you pay less—or more—than Rival's sensible price—before you consider any other dog food—canned or otherwise—ask yourself whether you can do better than follow the example of the millions who use Rival—and know its value!

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—The men of science have been conspiring against us for many years now, preparing assorted torture devices such as the telephone and the pari-mutuel machine, but I am not at all sure that they have not now come up with the most diabolical, the deadliest, the most neurosis-inspiring contraption of them all.

This is the talking chair, and if you have a macabre desire to see it in action you can do so by coming to town and booking a room at an inn just off Broadway in the Forties.

In most hotels, after you have signed the register, been frisked for a rod and held up for a half-buck tip by the bellhop, you are left strictly to yourself. The door shuts behind the bellboy and then you are on your own as far as finding where the coffee shop is, trying to get the shower to work and so on.

In a number of rooms in this hotel, however, as soon as the bellboy has vanished you sink into the nearest chair to marshal your forces—the chair starts talking.

This absorbing monstrosity, the creation of a Dallas, Texas, man named Samoff, clears its throat gravely and then launches into a three-minute spiel, explaining to you just where the hotel barber shop is, how much you may expect to pay for breakfast and at what theater the best show is playing. I do not believe it tells you how to get tickets however.

Now, obviously Mr. Samoff and the hotel management feel that this is a service calculated to make the guest feel at home, and I suppose that to a point it does (a built-in record player, incidentally, is the secret behind it). But it may boomerang. It may very well boomerang and the thought makes me quake a little.

* * *

"Well, sucker," I can hear it saying now, "here you are at last. Eight bucks a room. Aren't you honestly ashamed of yourself for laying out a sum like that just for a night in a flophouse? They really saw you coming, kid."

A little unsettled, you open your suitcase defiantly and take out your blue suit for hanging up in the closet. The chair laughs maliciously. "Hangers?" it says. "You were expecting, maybe, hangers? You really want egg in your beer, don't you? Drape the old blue serge on one of the hooks." You do as advised and the chair speaks up again.

"What I would love to have you do," it says, with false geniality, "is open the window and look out at the beautiful view. Go on. Get a little air into the room." You push up the window and brush aside the drapes—and look out on to a gray, dirty areaway, with a sooty brick wall staring you in the face. The chair knocks itself out with wild laughter. It subsides, finally, and resumes its role of welcomer and pointer-out.

"If you'll go into the bathroom," it says, "you will notice that this, alas, is the only room in the hotel without a plug for your electric razor. The shower, I assume you don't have to be told about; in a million years you won't be able to get the hot and cold mixed to a comfortable warm.

"Don't bother hunting for soap. And if I were you, I wouldn't even ring for the maid. She's next door at Harry's bar and grill, having a quick one, and her union won't allow any interruptions. Mid-afternoon teatime, they call it. It's in the contract."

* * *

This could go on and on, with the miserable chair following your every move and commenting on it acidly, but it might reach its heights when you are about to check out.

"Now, really," it would mumble coldly, "you didn't think you were going to get past the door with that Turkish towel in your grip, did you? I swear, the minute you try it, I set off a master burglar alarm in the basement and you'll be in felony court by nightfall. Put it back, kid; put it back."

You rip the towel out in a rage, snap the clasps on the suitcase once more and head for the door. "What?" the chair says, in mock unbelief. "No tip for the maid? Come, come, J. Cheever Cheapskate.

"So she didn't make your bed and so she swiped two of your best handkerchiefs. Observe the amenities, old boy. This is a civilized world, and even if you don't tip the maid back in Goose Creek, Texas, we do it here. Fork over."

The possibilities are endless. Next time I stop at this hotel, I plan to arrive with a .45 automatic. Do you think they have a set jail term for shooting a chair?

Know your nose before you start applying make-up or choosing hair arrangements! Here's the reason!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Why is it that you meet one woman endowed with lovely features who makes no impression at all and another, who, though slighted when the face-grace was passed out, gives the appearance of being ravishing? Well, the first woman takes her features for granted—while the second one practices all the beauty arts. The most important ingredient of real beauty is always personal effort.

Pessimism concerning your looks plays more havoc than do irregular features. Unless you make the try for beauty, how do you know whether you can or can't attain it? Any feature can effectively be remodeled. Even a Cyrano-like nose can be brought into proper relationship, just with a pot of foundation and the right hair do.

Reshaping a Nose

Is your nose too long, knobby or protuberant? Run a swathe of slightly darker foundation down its center from the bridge to the lower end of the nostrils, and you'll see it immediately brought to proportionate terms.

By using a lighter foundation in the same manner, a short or turned-up nose will take on cameo delicacy. The broad or flat proboscis can be slimmed and shaped if you cover all but a half-inch down its center with a darker base.

For best results, your camouflage foundation must be no more than two shades lighter or darker than the one used on the rest of your face. Apply it sparingly, blend it to the vanishing point, and powder for a mat finish. When you become expert, your device will not be detectable. Models and movie stars use these techniques every day and the public is none the wiser.

Hair to the Rescue

Even the way you part your hair affects the size of your nose. A center part adds length. A part started above the inside corner of your eye and slanted outward to finish on the crown above the ear will shorten it. To counteract nose breadth, begin your part over the outside corner of the eye and run it diagonally up to the center of your crown.

The rest of your hair can be dressed to contradict your nose, too. Pull the side hair back to foreshorten a long nose or coax the lock across the forehead up to add length and subtract width. Be critical of your back arrangement as well. Keep the fullness in proportion to the size of your nose and place it where it most flatters your profile.

Perfect these methods and you'll never be thought "nosy" for any physical connotation!

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

Office Wives

When you see a tycoon with a male secretary, you can be pretty sure his predecessor is now Mrs. Boss. After a young lady removes her sleeve protectors and horned-rimmed glasses and moves away from the telephone and typewriter into the front parlor, she knows the ropes and doesn't want to take any chances.

John Wheeler

Before her husband catches his breath and the glow is off the honeymoon, she brings up the first order of business which is hiring her successor. This is for self-protection. The newcomer, if a lady, is not picked for looks and understands from the beginning she is to act more or less as a spy and report any suspicious activities on the part of the guy who occupies the big chair. Of course, the safest solution is to employ a man, although he may not be as dependable when it comes to checking up on extra-curricular telepone calls or engagement for lunch or dinner.

A friend of mine, who is an old hand around, spent the weekend with me, and he was talking about a man who decided to trade his secretary for his current wife, thinking he had made a conquest rather than that the young woman was not only a good typist, but also a hell of a fine wing shot. Of course, this situation did not develop overnight, and, as he was a prominent gent, it attracted considerable attention in certain sections of the press.

"As soon as she had on the wedding ring," explained my friend, "she took command. Every time the boss cleared his throat in the office, the bride got a report. He died after a few years, and she inherited a fortune and has married again. She won't admit now she knows which is the working side of a typewriter. Like most of the others, she put on a high hat and circulates in the raised-pinky set while drinking tea. She has also settled down and fattened up.

"A lot of men get to be as much afraid of their office wives as the ones at home. Since I'm not married and am too old to have any prospects, I can talk frankly. These girls hustle out of bed in the morning and to their shops usually without any breakfast. You can find the drugstores along Madison Avenue full of them about 10 o'clock, getting cakes and coffee while the boss goes through his mail or wonders why it takes her so long to fix her hair. Then, of course, she has some telephoning to do on her own."

There is a young man in New York, F. Darius Benham, a fabulous character, who makes his living as a press agent. He organized a secretaries' club a few years ago, the membership being composed of the "echoes" of the big shots of industry. Every year they have a dinner and invite their bossses to attend. Some of these social occasions turned out to be whistle stops on the way to the altar, and the founder got a reputation as a kind of Cupid.

The real stylish ones have a stenographer of their own, and they devote themselves to protecting the head man, explaining he is in conference or on the long distance, often unintentionally turning away customers. For several years I had been trying to reach an important publisher and only got about as far as his second secretary, until I met him at a dinner one night given by a bigger shot than he was. He approached me afterwards and said,

"Why don't I ever see you, Jack?" That was due to the fact one of the speakers had put in a plug for me.

"Because," I answered, "your secretary is the best blocking back I know. Notre Dame could use her."

"I'd be glad to talk to you any time," he responded.

I didn't let him off the hook and made a date for 10 o'clock the next morning at his hotel suite where I felt sure I could by-pass his office guardian. He was in his pajamas and, before he got his pants on, I had sold him the North American Newspaper Alliance service, and he hasn't lived to regret it.

This column was written while eating a box lunch at my desk.

"Miss Rahl, would you mind washing my milk glass for me? Thank you very much." That's one of the gratuitous duties of a secretary.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — (INS) — Seems to me that one of the most exciting news stories of recent years—barring war and peace—is the erection at a dismal New York state prison, unpopularly known as Dannemora, of "The Church of the Good Thief," built by convicts of all faiths and no faith at all under the inspirational guidance of a good man named Father "Steve" Hyland.

Took a from-the-heels swing at the story myself once, for MGM, but it never got around to being made. Now it has been done much better in book form by a writing priest named John L. Bonn, for Doubleday, and if it doesn't make some of the most arresting reading in a long time I don't know arresting reading. Bonn calls it "Gates of Dannemora."

This Father Hyland was doing real comfortably in a parish in Ticonderoga, N. Y., which he figured was the best parish in the world, when his bishop shipped him off to what the bishop said was the worst. That was 15 years ago, and in those years, starting from less than zero, Father Hyland has built up a considerable charity named the Good Thief Foundation which is doing good work in many prisons through the country.

In building his wonderful house of worship inside the walls of "Siberia of America," up near the Canadian border, Hyland encountered fantastic difficulties not only from the church itself but from determined groups which took him to court for attempting to violate the fine principle of separation of the church and state. He could never have succeeded, however, without the aid of his Protestant and Jewish chaplain associates and friends.

Most of all, he could not have succeeded without the help of some of the toughest cons in the business. You don't get sent to Dannemora for parking double. Ask Lucky Luciano. Ask the jewel thief who, when the funds for building the church were running out requested the padre to spring him long enough to raise a few grand. Ask the murders who helped put together this impressive house of God—dedicated to a thief named Dismas, who died with Christ.

Bonn paints a good picture of what it was like the day when—on top of enthusiastic support from Charlie McCabe, of the N. Y. Mirror, Ed and Pegeen Fitzgerald, of the radio, and a good New York saloon keeper named Joe Maden—work was started. All Hyland had to work with, materially, was the wood from a razed prison barn and the promise of the stone in an ancient abandoned prison wall.

"Beneath him," writes Bonn, "stood 200 of the worst criminals in America, armed with picks and shovels and instruments of demolition. From the turrets the machine guns were turned upon them; the blue coats of guards mottled the mob of gray. 'There'll be trouble, padre,' the guard said. 'too many tools . . . they've sent the worst gang in the prison.'

"And the priest looked at his men and smiled . . . And seeing only their eyes he was not afraid. Now also he could see back beyond them, to the century of felons who had dug rock out of this soil and constructed the wall that today they were about to demolish.

"'Men,' he said, 'you are going to do what every inmate in the world wants to do. You are going to demolish a prison wall. A century ago men dug these rocks out of the mountain, and shackled, ankle to ankle, piled them up against their freedom. Blood and sweat stained those rocks. They told those men, as they tell you, that there was no escape from Dannemora. These rocks were sentinels of the damned.

"'But temples before this have risen on ruins; from these stones, also, shall rise a shrine which you will build; from the despair of years you shall erect a temple to your strength and to your courage for yourselves and for generations yet to come.

"'Building up the temple of God, not only one made by hands, but another—the temple of God which is yourselves, that you may rise as this church is rising, into manhood, which is your birthright, which dungeons cannot defeat nor all the gates and rocks in the world bar you from. Build it for Saint Dismas, the thief who broke into haven from the Cross.

"'They tell you there is no escape from the walls of Dannemora. Then I tell you to build an escape for yourselves inside the walls of Dannemora. Men! Tear down the walls!'"

Quite a book. Quite a book. Nothing like it has been published in a long time, for the simple reason that it is utterly unique.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — (INS) — Seems to me that one of the most exciting news stories of recent years—barring war and peace—is the erection at a dismal New York state prison, unpopularly known as Dannemora, of "The Church of the Good Thief," built by convicts of all faiths and no faith at all under the inspirational guidance of a good man named Father "Steve" Hyland.

Took a from-the-heels swing at the story myself once, for MGM, but it never got around to being made. Now it has been done much better in book form by a writing priest named John L. Bonn, for Doubleday, and if it doesn't make some of the most arresting reading in a long time I don't know arresting reading. Bonn calls it "Gates of Dannemora."

This Father Hyland was doing real comfortably in a parish in Ticonderoga, N. Y., which he figured was the best parish in the world, when his bishop shipped him off to what the bishop said was the worst. That was 15 years ago, and in those years, starting from less than zero, Father Hyland has built up a considerable charity named the Good Thief Foundation which is doing good work in many prisons through the country.

In building his wonderful house of worship inside the walls of "Siberia of America," up near the Canadian border, Hyland encountered fantastic difficulties not only from the church itself but from determined groups which took him to court for attempting to violate the fine principle of separation of the church and state. He could never have succeeded, however, without the aid of his Protestant and Jewish chaplain associates and friends.

Most of all, he could not have succeeded without the help of some of the toughest cons in the business. You don't get sent to Dannemora for parking double. Ask Lucky Luciano. Ask the jewel thief who, when the funds for building the church were running out requested the padre to spring him long enough to raise a few grand. Ask the murders who helped put together this impressive house of God—dedicated to a thief named Dismas, who died with Christ.

Bonn paints a good picture of what it was like the day when—on top of enthusiastic support from Charlie McCabe, of the N. Y. Mirror, Ed and Pegeen Fitzgerald, of the radio, and a good New York saloon keeper named Joe Maden—work was started. All Hyland had to work with, materially, was the wood from a razed prison barn and the promise of the stone in an ancient abandoned prison wall.

"Beneath him," writes Bonn, "stood 200 of the worst criminals in America, armed with picks and shovels and instruments of demolition. From the turrets the machine guns were turned upon them; the blue coats of guards mottled the mob of gray. 'There'll be trouble, padre,' the guard said. 'too many tools . . . they've sent the worst gang in the prison.'

"And the priest looked at his men and smiled . . . And seeing only their eyes he was not afraid. Now also he could see back beyond them, to the century of felons who had dug rock out of this soil and constructed the wall that today they were about to demolish.

"'Men,' he said, 'you are going to do what every inmate in the world wants to do. You are going to demolish a prison wall. A century ago men dug these rocks out of the mountain, and shackled, ankle to ankle, piled them up against their freedom. Blood and sweat stained those rocks. They told those men, as they tell you, that there was no escape from Dannemora. These rocks were sentinels of the damned.

"'But temples before this have risen on ruins; from these stones, also, shall rise a shrine which you will build; from the despair of years you shall erect a temple to your strength and to your courage for yourselves and for generations yet to come.

"'Building up the temple of God, not only one made by hands, but another—the temple of God which is yourselves, that you may rise as this church is rising, into manhood, which is your birthright, which dungeons cannot defeat nor all the gates and rocks in the world bar you from. Build it for Saint Dismas, the thief who broke into haven from the Cross.

"'They tell you there is no escape from the walls of Dannemora. Then I tell you to build an escape for yourselves inside the walls of Dannemora. Men! Tear down the walls!'"

Quite a book. Quite a book. Nothing like it has been published in a long time, for the simple reason that it is utterly unique.

Membership Drive Is Now Underway By Local VFW

Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is participating in the 1952 Third District membership drive Raymond F. Whitehair, commander, announced yesterday.

Whitehair said the Third District, comprising all posts in Western Maryland, has a potential of 3,000 new members and "That may be considered as the goal." He said "Every Foreign Service Man a Member of the VFW" is the slogan for the campaign. Whitehair said all posts are cooperating and working hard.

Thomas K. Whalley is heading the local membership committee and is assisted by William Raymond, Vernon Crable, George Speis, John Fike, Raymond Reynolds, Russell Reynolds, Paul Moore, Glen Watson and William Blair.

Whalley announced that a Third District "kickoff" membership rally will be held Sunday, Armistice Day, at 2:30 p. m. at the Post Home, 205 Union Street. VFW members are urged to make a special effort to attend and bring a prospective new member. Refreshments will be served.

The post, which was organized in 1925, is making plans for a twenty-sixth anniversary party Saturday, November 24. A birthday cake will be cut and special entertainment and other features offered, Whitehair said. There will also be a floor show and dance with music by Tommy Smithem.

The schedule of events for the remainder of the month includes an Armistice Day dance Monday night with Tommy Smithem playing, Ladies Auxiliary meeting Tuesday, a dance and floor show November 17; regular Post meeting November 20, Navy Mother's Club meeting November 23 and another Auxiliary meeting on November 27.

B&O Derailment Causes Delay In RR Schedule

The derailment of four empty cars of a westbound extra Baltimore and Ohio Railroad coal train on the 17-mile grade caused a delay in the schedules of three passenger trains early yesterday.

The cars left the track at Hitchcock tunnel, 11 miles west of Piedmont, W. Va., and 39 miles west of Cumberland on the Cumberland Division at 1:30 a. m.

Tracks 1 and 2 were blocked by the cars of Extra Train No. 369. Wreck crews had No. 2 clear at 6:35 a. m. and No. 1 at 7:30 a. m.

Delayed were No. 2, the National Limited, and Nos. 23 and 24, the east and westbound West Virginians.

The accident was caused when the air brakes suddenly went into emergency, B. and O. officials reported at the Cumberland Division offices here.

Navy Reserve Staff Members Get Citation

The citations were presented Yeoman First Class Jack Marland, USNR, and Chief Hospital Corpsman Joseph John Ziner, USN, by Lt. Comdr. W. E. Woodson, Jr., at a commendatory mast ceremony in the Naval Armory Tuesday.

Marland received a commendation from Capt. Joseph P. Blundon, commanding officer of the local Naval Reserve Seabee Company.

Capt. Blundon stated in the citation that the Seabee unit has no clerical staff and Marland handles the work as a part of his duties as a reservist on active duty with the local Naval Reserve companies.

Capt. Blundon pointed out that it was the highly efficient manner in which Marland performed his duties that helped materially in the company winning first place in Fifth Naval District competition for the best unit.

The other staff member cited was Chief Ziner for his duties in handling details arising from the accident near Romney, W. Va., in which five sailors were killed. Ziner was commended for his devotion to duty in absence of the commanding officer.

PERFORMING TRADITIONAL RITE—Pvt. and Mrs. Henry S. Pittman are shown cutting their wedding cake at the reception held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Lewis, 221 Race Street. The bride is the former Miss Delores Ann Lewis. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Pittman. Rev. Carl H. Clapp officiated at the ceremony in St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church, November 2.

Joanne Mathews, senior, will represent Catholic Central High School in the "I Speak For Democracy" contest sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce.

Miss Mathews, daughter of Thomas H. Mathews, 421 Walnut Street, was selected by the Senior Class and faculty.

Other contestants were Dorothy Burkey, Margaret Ann Campbell, Mary Coffey, Shirley Green, Monica Logsdon, Patricia Ann Prendergast.

Slot Machines Case Will Be Continued

Details involving a slot machine raid by police Sunday night at the Navy League Club, 148 North Centre Street, have been turned over to the State's Attorney's office for further investigation.

Following the seizure of four slot machines, Paul V. Drew, Route 6, Locust Grove, posted $200 bond for trial yesterday in Police Court on a charge of maintaining gaming devices.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick continued the case yesterday at the requst of Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, who investigated with Lt. James E. Van and Officers John G. Powers and Richard W. Lashley.

Police said the club may face additional charges since whisky and beer were in evidence in the place when the raid occurred. The club's liquor license was revoked some time ago after authorities seized other slot machines.

OPS To Probe Beer, Liquor Prices In Across-Bar Sales

An OPS called meeting of Baltimore tavernkeepers to head off a movement for out-of-compliance price increases on drinks sold over the bar may have state-wide implications.

The emergency session scheduled Friday has been called as Baltimore area owners by the score are reported preparing to jump the on-sale price of a bottle of beer from 15 to 20 cents and add five cents to each "shot" of whisky, Baltimore sources reveal.

The increases have been effective since the higher federal excises tax became law November 1.

Face Prosecution

Hugo R. Hoffman, state OPS director, said barkeepers will be told they will face prosecution if they deliberately flout regulations and the complicated rules will be explained by officials of the agency.

Here, in general, is how the rules governing tavern sales work:

Beer and whisky sold for consumption on the premises come under the very complicated OPS restaurant regulation.

This means that a retailer's prices and costs must be kept in a specific ratio during each 4-month period.

For example, if a bar owner paid $20,000 for his beer, whisky and food during the pre-Korean base period, and then sold it to customers for $50,000, he had to maintain this 2-to-5 ratio.

Overhead, wages and other such expenses do not enter the ratio picture.

If he wants, he may jump his over-the-counter beer price 5 cents, 10 cents or even 25 cents a bottle. It makes no difference on a specific item.

But the minute he increases one price, he must change others to balance his ratio. This would require him, perhaps, to cut his food prices or serve a larger glass of draught beer.

The rule governing take-home sales of beer is relatively simple.

Can Charge More

The new excise tax amounts to three tenths of a penny a bottle. If a customer buys just one bottle "to go," the dealer cannot charge more than he did before November 3. But if he sells two, he may charge a penny more than the old price for two, as the regulations says he may pass along the actual tax increase to the customer if it amounts to more than half a penny.

Baltimore tavernkeepers asserted at a series of emergency meetings of their own last week that they are entitled to raise their beer prices.

They said that the standard 15-cent sale price of a bottle of beer has been maintained since 1942—when beer per case wholesaled for one third less.

Austin, a ghostlike mining town near Baker, Ore., once had a population of 5,000 after gold was discovered there in the 1860's.

Nash Denies Being Fire Company Trustee

Curtis M. Nash, Flintstone, said yesterday he is not a trustee of the Flintstone Volunteer Fire Department as listed on an application filed with the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners by representatives of the company for a beer permit for premises at Flintstone.

Mr. Nash, who said he is treasurer of the company, added that he resigned as trustee some months ago.

Two Regulars To Report From Last Season's Squad

LaSalle High's Explorers will open a 28-game basketball schedule Friday, December 7, on the SS. Peter and Paul court with Romney High's Pioneers furnishing the opposition.

Although Art Slocum has not yet indicated whether he will coach this season's squad LaSalle has compiled 15 home games and 13 road tilts for the Explorer cagers. Two regulars from last year's squad will return. They are Marty Mullaney and Paul Ackerman, both juniors. Lost from the 1950-51 team are Doug Connolly, Don Farrell and Jim Moran who were graduated in June.

The Explorers will meet Allegany and Fort Hill in important city clashes in successive games January 4 and 8 and January 29 and February 1.

Home and home games are set with Beall, Barton and Bruce of the Western Maryland Interscholastic League. As both Fort Hill and Allegany belong to that circuit, the Explorers will play a WMI schedule. The Irish formerly belonged to the six-team circuit.

The Hub City crew that year defeated Fort Hill 34-0 with Joe scoring two touchdowns . . . . Coach Johnny Long's Sentinels captured only two of ten decisions in that disastrous year . . . . Hoopengardner was one of Hagerstown's leading scoring threats and the Washington Countians lost only to Allegany in the now defunct Cumberland Valley Athletic League . . . . The CVAL that season was one of the strongest in the section with Allegany, Hagerstown, Martinsburg and Handley all having powerhouse elevens.

Allegany won the title in 1938 winning 6-0 over both Handley and Hagerstown and defeating Martinsburg 19-0 . . . . The Campers rounded out a successful season with a 14-0 decision over Fort Hill in the now-famous "Snow Bowl" game in the Cumberland stadium . . . . The Turkey Day classic that season was postponed until the following Tuesday because of a heavy snowfall.

The three-man Knights of Columbus committee which selects the Players of the Week for awhile considered not making a selection last week because the Allegany-LaSalle game was postponed three days.... However since both schools play again this week and it was thought unfair to deprive the players a chance in the Monday tilt the selection was made for last week.

Elkins High's famous band which is noted for its double time marching will make another appearance in Cumberland Saturday when the once-beaten Elkins eleven battles Coach Bob Pence's Allegany gridders. . . . The band, one of the snappiest high school marching organizations in the district, drew the praise of everyone who saw them perform two years ago here in Fort Hill stadium.

Victories in Allegany's final two contests could make the Campers football campaign a successful one after all . . . . The Alco JV's already have finished an unbeaten season with the Eighth Grade "Little Campers" who have won five in a row are not expected to experience much trouble in their final game Saturday with St. Patrick's in the CYO league.

After seeing LaSalle's spirited play against Allegany we predict they will defeat Ridgeley and Beall.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP) — Chairman Celler (D-NY) of the House monopoly committee today released figures showing that the Brooklyn Dodgers earned profits of more than $2,364,500 from 1945 through 1949.

Bears And Rams Top Offensive Teams In NFL

Giants Continue As Best Defensive Club

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7 (AP)—The National Conference of the National Football League still holds a tight grip on offensive honors with half the play for pay season gone.

The Los Angeles Rams and Chicago Bears are waging a close fight for total yardage leadership with the Rams still in front on the basis of 1,028 yards rushing and 1,682 yards passing for a total 2,710. Coach George Halas' first place Bears have compiled 2,295 yards—1,238 passing and 1,057 rushing. Detroit ranks third in total offense with 2,202 yards and Cleveland, leader of the circuit's American Conference, fourth on 2,144.

In ground gaining the Bears continue to set the pace with 1,238 yards, followed by San Francisco (1,067).

Los Angeles, passing champions last year, holds a 188 yard lead in that department over the surprisingly air minded Green Bay Packers, 1,682 to 1,494.

Gavilan Stops Janiro In 4th

Loser Knocked Down 3 Times In Bout

DETROIT, Nov. 7—(AP)—Kid Gavilan and his bolo punch stopped Tony Janiro of Youngstown after 2:41 minutes of the fourth round of their 10-round non-title fight tonight. Janiro held a four ¾ pound edge over 149¾ pound Gavilan.

Referee Clarence Rosen rushed in and halted the nationally-televised and broadcast battle after Gavilan's roundhouse lefts and rights had floored Janiro twice in the round. Janiro was backing up in confusion, his right leg buckling under him when the referee halted it.

Gavilan, world welterweight champion from Cuba, also floored Janiro in the first round but the young middleweight contender hopped right back onto his feet. The referee forced him to take an eight count, nevertheless.

Permane Rides Ode To Victory

Cops Pimlico Feature Over Muddy Track

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. (AP) — With Bobby Permane turning in a topnotch saddle effort, Mill River Stables Ode drove to a nose decision over Fighting Fleet in the Lafayette Purse at Pimlico today. . .

The year-old gelding had no trouble in the muddy going and returned $7.80 straight to his backers in the crown of 9,47 fans.

Fighting Fleet turned in a game effort under Johnny Breen and just missed in the mile and a sixteenth effort. Two lengths behind Fighting Fleet came Arthur Pilate.

Around the last turn. Fighting Fleet moved up on the extreme outside to gain a slight advantage, but Ode never gave up and got to the front again in midstretch but, in the see-saw battle, was forced to withstand an even later bid from the runnerup.

The day's steeplechase was won by Mrs. M. Walsh's Reno Sam who led all the way in the two-mile test. The 9-year-old gelding was well handled by Jockey F. D. and returned $7.60 straight.

Sunshine Nell Wins

JAMAICA, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP) — Hampton Stable's Sunshine Nell proved the best mudlark in the recreation purse, a six furlong allowance race, before 13,890 fans at fog-bound Jamaica race track today.

The 3-year-old daughter of Sun Again-Nellie Flag won by a length and a half over Mrs. Colin MacLead's Torr, who finished three quarters of a length to the good of John S. Phipps' Top Level. Hovahome Stable's Miss Meggy, the even money favorite, stopped after holding an early lead. Marise Farm's Uncle Edgar brought up the rear.

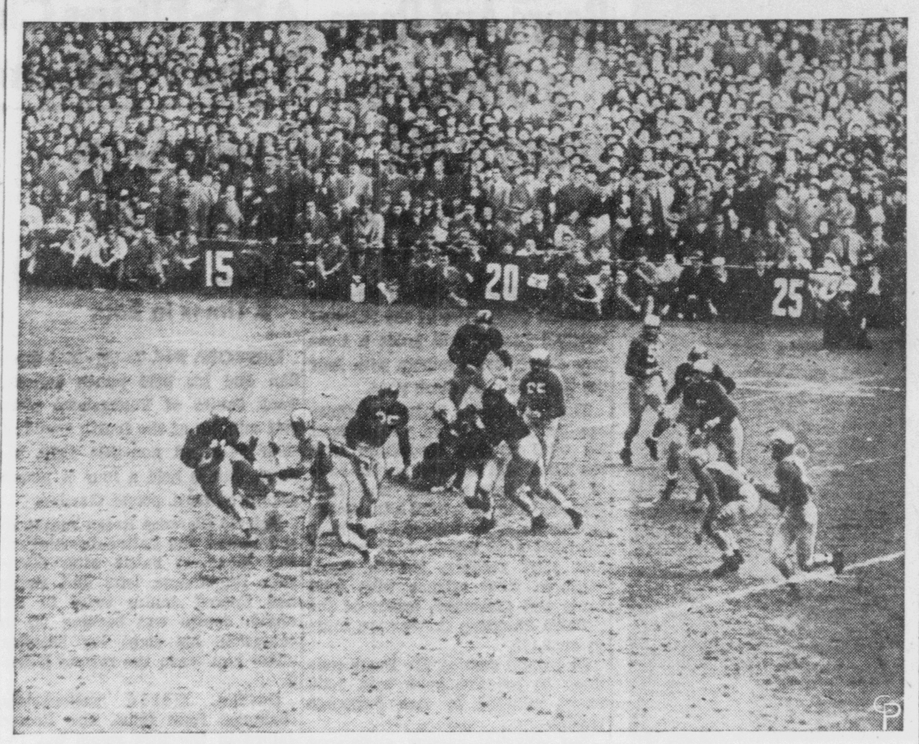
Deer Kills Reported

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7 (AP) — Only two positive kills have been reported so far in the first three days of Maryland's special open season for bow and arrow deer hunters.

The season opened Monday and closes Saturday in Harford and Baltimore counties.

Positive kills have been reported by Gerald Gustafson of Aberdeen and Wayne Bracken of Edgewood.

FOOTBALL FLASHBACKS — THAT was a game!



NEW YORK, Nov. 9, 1946—(Central Press)—The big one was played at Yankee Stadium here today. And when it was over mighty Notre Dame and mighty Army were just that. Mighty. The two titans battled it out to a 0-0 tie as three of the great backs of modern grid history failed to dent the defenses thrown up by both teams.

A crowd of 75,000 jammed the ball park for the game in which some 250,000 sought tickets. The crowd saw Army's touchdown twins, Glenn Davis and Felix (Doc) Blanchard, put on a stellar performance, but matched by the brilliance of the Irish stars, Johnny Lujack and Red Sitko.

Wakefield Offered Second Tribe Tryout

CLEVELAND, Nov. 7 (AP) — Dick Wakefield, ex-Detroit Tiger star outfielder, is going to be given another tryout with the Cleveland Indians —if he wants it.

Hank Greenberg, Cleveland's general manager and an old friend and teammate of Wakefield, disclosed today he made the offer when he saw Dick at the world series. He invited him to the Indians' spring training camp at Tucson, Ariz.

Even though Wakefield worked out for a time with the Indians last season and finally went home, Hank still thinks he has possibilities.

Permane Rides Ode To Victory

Cops Pimlico Feature Over Muddy Track

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. (AP) — With Bobby Permane turning in a topnotch saddle effort, Mill River Stables Ode drove to a nose decision over Fighting Fleet in the Lafayette Purse at Pimlico today. . .

The year-old gelding had no trouble in the muddy going and returned $7.80 straight to his backers in the crown of 9,47 fans.

Fighting Fleet turned in a game effort under Johnny Breen and just missed in the mile and a sixteenth effort. Two lengths behind Fighting Fleet came Arthur Pilate.

Around the last turn. Fighting Fleet moved up on the extreme outside to gain a slight advantage, but Ode never gave up and got to the front again in midstretch but, in the see-saw battle, was forced to withstand an even later bid from the runnerup.

The day's steeplechase was won by Mrs. M. Walsh's Reno Sam who led all the way in the two-mile test. The 9-year-old gelding was well handled by Jockey F. D. and returned $7.60 straight.

Sunshine Nell Wins

The 3-year-old daughter of Sun Again-Nellie Flag won by a length and a half over Mrs. Colin MacLead's Torr, who finished three quarters of a length to the good of John S. Phipps' Top Level. Hovahome Stable's Miss Meggy, the even money favorite, stopped after holding an early lead. Marise Farm's Uncle Edgar brought up the rear.

Deer Kills Reported

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7 (AP) — Only two positive kills have been reported so far in the first three days of Maryland's special open season for bow and arrow deer hunters.

The season opened Monday and closes Saturday in Harford and Baltimore counties.

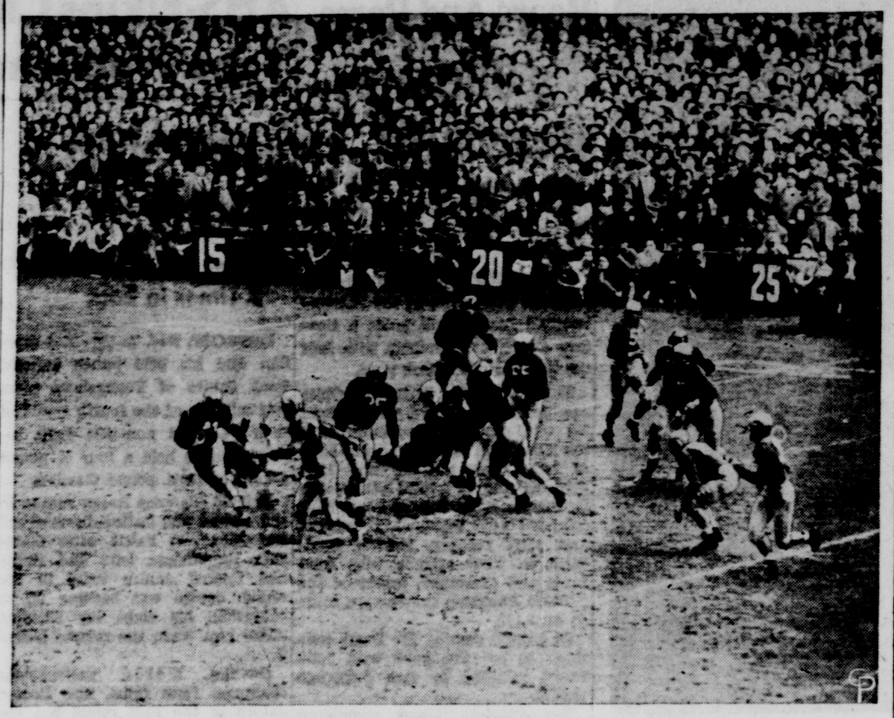
FOOTBALL FLASHBACKS — THAT was a game!



NEW YORK, Nov. 9, 1946—(Central Press)—The big one was played at Yankee Stadium here today. And when it was over mighty Notre Dame and mighty Army were just that. Mighty. The two titans battled it out to a 0-0 tie as three of the great backs of modern grid history failed to dent the defenses thrown up by both teams.

A crowd of 75,000 jammed the ball park for the game in which some 250,000 sought tickets. The crowd saw Army's touchdown twins, Glenn Davis and Felix (Doc) Blanchard, put on a stellar performance, but matched by the brilliance of the Irish stars, Johnny Lujack and Red Sitko.

Wakefield Offered Second Tribe Tryout

CLEVELAND, Nov. 7 (AP) — Dick Wakefield, ex-Detroit Tiger star outfielder, is going to be given another tryout with the Cleveland Indians —if he wants it.

Hank Greenberg, Cleveland's general manager and an old friend and teammate of Wakefield, disclosed today he made the offer when he saw Dick at the world series. He invited him to the Indians' spring training camp at Tucson, Ariz.

Mid-East Land Reform Demand Stirs Ferment

By FRED ZUSY

CAIRO—(AP)—Cries for land reform are being heard in the Arab Middle East.

The demands are opposed by the big landowners in the area, who own the most and the best of the land.

The result may be an open clash some day. There already have been skirmishes.

Mindful of the so-called agrarian reform that cloaked the advance of communism in China, U. S diplomats in the area are keeping a watchful eye on developments.

There is a widespread poverty, ignorance and disease here, as there was in China. There are Moscow-trained agitators, too, working skillfully and secretly to capitalize on the discontent of those who have nothing.

A United Nations economic survey of the Middle East, issued as a preliminary section of a 1949-50 word economic report, states the problem in a nutshell.

Excepting Israel, Jordan, Lebanon and Turkey, it said:

"A large proportion of the cultivated land is held by large—generally absentee—landowners. Thus in Egypt 12,000 landowners held 36 per cent of the cultivated area while 2,500,000 small farmers own only 33 per cent.

"In Iran 40 to 50 per cent of the privately owned cultivated land belongs to large landowners and only five per cent to small holders.

"In the southern half of Iraq, the greater part of the land belongs to large landowners; and in Syria large holdings account for 40 per cent of the privately owned land."

In Iran, Iraq and Egypt, the royal estates take a big cut of the available land for cultivation. There have been a few scattered gestures in which plots of crown land were distributed to the landless peasant, but this has only scratched the surface.

Syria's new constitution provides that ownership of agricultural lands be restricted to 100 hectares (247 acres) of irrigated land per person or 500 hectares of un-irrigated land.

A bill to translate this into law is before the parliament, but as in most Arab countries, the parliament is dominated by the landowners. When the land bill came up for discussion the landowners boycotted the sessions and there was no quorum.

The Arab Socialist Party in Syria recently called an "anti-feudalism" rally in Aleppo, attended by thousands of peasants. Several open clashes have been reported in Syria between peasants and landowners.

Egypt banned a similar meeting of Egyptian Fellahin (peasants) which had been called in Cairo. The leader of the party was arrested for questioning. Several scattered incidents have been reported in Egypt involving open quarreling between peasants and landlords. Thousands of peasants on one large estate sacked and burned the home of a large estate owner.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Answer: Yes, and it is a mistaken kindness, writes Edith M. Stern. She tells of "devoted" daughters who won't let their mothers lift a finger to help with domestic duties, insist upon driving them wherever they want to go, and refuse to let them live by themselves, even though they would prefer to do so. Where parents accept such treatment, it tends to make them old beyond their years, the enforced helplessness becoming at first a habit and then a reality. At least as long as they are able-bodied, older people need to have work to do, just as much as young ones. And while it is satisfying to feel loved, a self-respecting person will want even more to feel needed.

Does self-knowledge bring self-control?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Franz Alexander, founder and head of the Chicago Institute For Psychoanalysis. Neuroses (and character disorders) result from the failure of the Ego to fulfill its task of modifying and adapting the person's conflicting wishes to each other and to external conditions. Psychoanalytic therapy seeks to correct this by making the Ego face repressed, "forbidden" impulses through lessening the fear and guilt that cause the represenation. Only as you come to understand the hidden forces in your own mind can your season guide them into practical and realistic channels.

Answer: Yes, writes, Dr. Donald S. Lindsay in the American Journal of Psychiatry. In particular, encephalitis (an infective disease of the brain) has occasionally been mistaken in committing patients to hospitals for neurosis or psychosis, although both the treatment and the prospects of recovery are very different. This chance of confusion both presents a challenge to the diagnostic skill of physicians and re-emphasizes the fact that lay psychotherapists should not treat mental patients except under a physician's supervision. (Of course, no trustworthy therapist would attempt to do so.)

Home Delivery Of Babies Urged In Event Of Atom War

By FRANK CAREY .... Associated Press Science Reporter

DALLAS—(AP)—A Memphis obstetrician said today it "might be wise" for doctors to revert to home deliveries of babies where possible as preparation for the emergencies of possible atomic attack.

Dr. W. A. Ruch, University of Tennessee College of Medicine, also made these other "primitive but x x x important" suggestions for "obstetrical practice under conditions imposed by all-out defensive warfare:"

1. Doctors should emphasize to expectant mothers "the importance of breast feeding x x x because of its simplicity during emergency attacks of bombing when all artificial feeding equipment might be destroyed."

2. Preparations should be made now to train a sufficient number of medical students, practical nurses and midwives to take care of "normal" deliveries since, presumably, most obstetricians would be needed to help in the emergency care of bombing casualties.

3. Adequate supplies of "portable incubators" should be made ready "in view of the large percentage of abortions and premature deliveries reported both from Japan and Germany resulting from both types of bombing."

Addressing the 45th annual meeting of the Southern Medical Association, Dr. Ruch said "most teaching institutions in the United States have discontinued home deliveries (of babies.)"

"It might be wise," he added, "to revert to this type of practice to help prepare us for emergency needs.

"Likewise, we might find it beneficial to institute refresher courses on home deliveries for rural physicians who could come from rural areas which are not likely to be bombed and help out with deliveries of pregnant mothers evacuated from our metropolitan centers."

He said this country should be ready to follow Britain's plan in the last war for the evacuation of pregnant women and for "the locating of rural temporary hospitals, billets, or homes for normal deliveries x x."

"It is likewise important," he said, "that expectant mothers prepare small kits or bags, containing drugs and supplies needed for themselves and their baby, not too large for travel and of material strong enough to stand rough usage."

Also, "all expectant mothers should have their blood typed early in their prenatal care, and identification tags of some material not destroyable by radiation should be worn by them x x x."

Fantastic Flying Heights Are Seen Within The Next Five Or Ten Years

SAN ANTONIO—(AP)—Major General Harry G. Armstrong, Surgeon General of the U. S. Airforce, told a meeting of scientists today that we are within five to ten years of fantastic flying heights.

He spoke to a symposium on the medical problems of flying fighting men in the upper fringe of the atmosphere. Forty scientists are making reports in the four-day symposium that started today.

General Armstrong said the information is needed now to learn how to train combat crews. They need protection from some very strange things they already are brushing against up where the sky is black instead of blue.

"The ships cannot be designed," he said, "until the effect on the crew is known. To learn the effects requires usually five to ten years."

But two of today's scientific reports gave clues. One was that the Navy's Douglas Skyrocket, a rocket plane carrying a pilot higher than 13 miles, heats the surrounding air to the temperature of boiling water. The other report predicted airships whose speed would heat the air to the temperature of red-hot iron.

The Skyrocket's speed never has been revealed officially. But it is rumored at between 1,000 and 1,500 miles an hour.

The red-hot iron temperature was predicted by Dr. Fritz Haber, of the U. S. Airforce School of Aviation Medicine. He did not disclose the speeds but said it should be readily possible to prevent harm to ship or pilot. There heats occur only at low altitudes where air friction is great. At high altitudes, although the air is still made red hot, it is too thin to offer much danger.

Dr. Haber said the friction of the air against the body of a pilot who bails out of a rocketship could make the air hot enough to burn his skin. He said the pilot would have to wear some sort of capsule for protection.

Our rockets already have run into x-rays coming from the sun. This was reported by Dr. E. C. Hulbert of the Naval Research Laboratory, Washington, D. C.

And if you think you can see by starlight at night you are mistaken. Five-sixths of the light that seems to come from stars, Dr. Hulbert said, really comes from the upper air. Why this air is so luminous he said is not known, but it probably is giving off at night some of the light it absorbed from sunshine in the daytime.

The aim was to provide the church with the type of music to which the congregation was accustomed in past years when the various pastors of the church were the sponsors for the appearance in Frostburg of world famous Welsh soloists and Welsh choirs.

W. Va. Arsonist Gets Jail Term At Keyser Court

Judge See Sentences Lewis B. Baker

KEYSER, W. Va.—Judge Ernest A. See yesterday morning sentenced a 16-year old Mineral county youth to serve one to ten years in the Huttonsville Medium Security Prison after he pleaded guilty to arson at the October term of Mineral County Circuit Court.

In another action Judge See sentenced Stanley D. Bonney, of Ridgeley, to a one-to-15 year term in the state penitentiary on a grand larceny charge. Bonney had pleaded guilty at the October term to stealing a watch and chain, valued at $90, from a Ridgeley home.

The youth, Lewis Bernard Baker, of near Piedmont, had been charged with four arson counts, although he was only tried on one charge. The remaining charges were nolle prossed.

The four counts charged the youth with setting two fires at the tower of the Potomac Valley Television Company on McCoole Hill, another at the farm home of Isaac Shockey and another at a blacksmith shop on the farm of Howard A. Bennett. He was tried for the second burning of the television tower.

Baker admitted the crimes when a lie detector was used at the local state police office. He was originally held for juvenile court action, but the case was moved to Circuit Court on the motion of Prosecutor Donald C. Hott.

Judge See deferred sentencing the youth after he had pleaded guilty, claiming he was dissatisfied with statements made by Baker.

During his questioning Judge See brought out that the boy, despite claims that he liked to see fires burn and remained at the scene of the blazes, did not always witness the actual burning.

Baker eventually admitted to Judge See that he made the statement for the purpose of establishing an alibi. Judge See then remanded the youth to Mineral county jail until he had more time to study the boy's mentality.

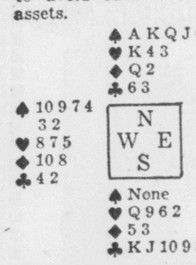
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

NO POINT TO OFFSET IT

WHEN you underlead an honor in your long suit against a No Trump contract, whatever high card trick you thereby jeopardize may be made up, or more, by the fact that you may manage to establish several low cards as trick-takers. But there is no such counter-balancing factor working for you when you lead away from an honor against a suit contract. Whatever that may cost you can not be offset by long-card tricks, as the declarer can ruff them. That is why able defenders shy away generally from leading suits with non-solid honors at their top, even preferring a trump lead to avoid such a risk of their assets.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Dbl	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♣	3 ♦	Pass	Pass
3 ♠	4 ♦	Pass	Pass
Dbl

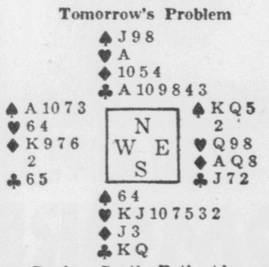
Under normal circumstances, East might have done well to pass on his third turn instead of bidding 4-Diamonds, in order to see if his partner could be loaded with North's suit and might like to double the 3-Spades. That is just what West would have done, and quite a neat score could have been made by good defense. But normal circumstances did not exist. East recognized his opponents as not particularly able defenders, though North was known to him as an aggressive chap who might double when he couldn't beat a contract.

Who can say East was wrong? The decisive mistake was made by South on the opening lead, when he chose the same card he would have used against a No Trump contract. It was the club J. You can easily see what that did for East. It prevented him from losing a trick in clubs. After the Q won, seven consecutive diamond tricks and the two side aces gave East ten tricks and his contract.

During the post-mortem, South tried to defend his choice of lead. Having none of his partner's spades, he preferred the club as possibly giving North a ruff or maybe putting North in with a possible ace to lead a spade back. A heart lead would have been just as costly. In fact the only non-expensive lead for South would have been a trump.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is correct defense if East bid 1-Spade, South 2-Hearts, West 2-Spades, North 3-Clubs, East 3-Spades and North doubles?

Sgt. Harper enlisted in the Army January 7, 1947, and received basic training at Fort Bragg, N. C. After a brief furlough, he was sent to Panama to serve three years.

Upon his return to the United States before Christmas, 1950, he re-enlisted for six years. Sgt. Harper then came home on leave before he was shipped to Japan from Fort Riley, Kansas.

Born in Cumberland, he was employed by Walsh and McCagh, local druggists, and at the Celanese plant prior to entering service.

Surviving, besides his parents, are two sisters, Mrs. Ruth Wolford and Mrs. Helen McMahon, both of Baltimore; two nieces and two nephews.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

NO POINT TO OFFSET IT

WHEN you underlead an honor in your long suit against a No Trump contract, whatever high card trick you thereby jeopardize may be made up, or more, by the fact that you may manage to establish several low cards as trick-takers. But there is no such counter-balancing factor working for you when you lead away from an honor against a suit contract. Whatever that may cost you can not be offset by long-card tricks, as the declarer can ruff them. That is why able defenders shy away generally from leading suits with non-solid honors at their top, even preferring a trump lead to avoid such a risk of their assets.

	♠ A K Q J 6 5 ♥ K 4 3 ♦ Q 2 ♣ 6 3
♠ 10 9 7 4 3 2 ♥ 8 7 5 ♦ 10 8 ♣ 4 2	N W E S	♠ 8 ♥ A J 10 ♦ A K J 9 7 6 4 ♣ A Q
	♠ None ♥ Q 9 6 2 ♦ 5 3 ♣ K J 10 9 8

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Dbl	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♠	3 ♦	Pass	Pass
3 ♠	4 ♦	Pass	Pass
Dbl

Under normal circumstances, East might have done well to pass on his third turn instead of bidding 4-Diamonds, in order to see if his partner could be loaded with North's suit and might like to double the 3-Spades. That is just what West would have done, and quite a neat score could have been made by good defense. But normal circumstances did not exist. East recognized his opponents as not particularly able defenders, though North was known to him as an aggressive chap who might double when he couldn't beat a contract.

Who can say East was wrong? The decisive mistake was made by South on the opening lead, when he chose the same card he would have used against a No Trump contract. It was the club J. You can easily see what that did for East. It prevented him from losing a trick in clubs. After the Q won, seven consecutive diamond tricks and the two side aces gave East ten tricks and his contract.

During the post-mortem, South tried to defend his choice of lead. Having none of his partner's spades, he preferred the club as possibly giving North a ruff or maybe putting North in with a possible ace to lead a spade back. A heart lead would have been just as costly. In fact the only non-expensive lead for South would have been a trump.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ J 9 8 ♥ A ♦ 10 5 4 ♣ A 10 9 8 4 3
♠ A 10 7 3 ♥ 6 4 ♦ K 9 7 6 2 ♣ 6 5	N W E S	♠ K Q 5 2 ♥ Q 9 8 ♦ A Q 8 ♣ J 7 2
	♠ 6 4 ♥ K J 10 7 5 3 2 ♦ J 3 ♣ K Q

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is correct defense if East bid 1-Spade, South 2-Hearts, West 2-Spades, North 3-Clubs, East 3-Spades and North doubles?

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7.—(INS)—I am told that the Brod Crawfords didn't actually reconcile, but that they are nearer to it than they have been at any time. The fact that Kay went back east to see Brod and they got along beautifully looks very favorable. Besides, that new baby is a big bond between them.

Brod has had a highly successful trip throughout the country appearing with his Columbia picture, "The Mob." He so pleased his boss that he will be starred in a technicolor number called "The Saber And Arrow," with Buddy Adler producing.

The picture goes before the cameras on the 15th of the month with Brod playing a cavalry officer in the Texas uprising in 1876. Andre De Troth, whose bad luck seems to be changing—I'm glad, for he's a nice guy—is the director.

• — • — •

The oriental charmer in "The King And I" on Broadway—I mean, of course, Yul Brynner—is going to make a motion picture. I wish I could say he's coming to Hollywood, but he's agreed to play the lead in a picture for Billy Wilder in Vienna.

It won't be made until next year, after "The King and I" has had its run—and from the way that play is selling out, you know it can't be anytime soon.

The story, an oriental, is against Communism and will show the difference between the once gay city of Vienna and the way it is now under the system imposed by the Stalin regime.

In the old days, Ramon Navarro had a very good voice, and he appeared in a couple of musicals, "The Cat and The Fiddle" and "Pagan Love Song."

So now he tells me he is going East to launch himself on a singing career in night clubs and on the stage.

"I don't know how much good I will do myself," said Ramon, "but I am eager to go to work and I believe this is the thing for me to do."

The years have treated Ramon kindly since the days when he was Rudolph Valentino's greatest rival for acting honors.

There was a lot of whispering before Clark Gable's picture "Across The Wide Missour" was ever released, that it was a turkey. Maybe that's a good way to ballyhoo a film because when it was shown the reviewers were agreeably surprised.

Of course, there have been better pictures, but also there have been many worse. And when King Gable can bring almost $42,000 into the local Loew's State and Egyptian in a week, you know how both he and the picture stand with the fans. That's really the important thing. The final answer is the box office returns.

Chit-chat: Baseball Star Ralph Kiner, honeymooning at the Palm Springs Racquet Club with Tennis Champ Nancy Chaffee, is surprising everyone with his skill on the courts. Heretofore Ralph has never been interested in any sports but baseball so it's love that put a racquet in his hand.

The Kiners have been playing tennis with Gussie Moran and David May as their opponents. Gussie is approaching the almost too thin stage—but that's not bad.

• — • — •

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Mrs. Warren Wright, whose late husband made a fortune on Citation and other thoroughbreds, has bought a house in Bel Air. Price reported—$225,000.

Lana Turner and Fernando Lamas, who were seen everywhere at Palm Springs over the weekend, were a Mocambo duo last eve.

Arlene Dahl and Lex Barker were a devoted pair. Ann Miller was with Eddie Grainger, and all our young beauties were out in their best clothes.

George O'Brien huddled with a South American producer at the King's Restaurant. Producer wants him for westerns with an Argentine background.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Alcoholics Will Get Mental Treatment

KEYSER, W. Va.—Two brothers here have been committed to Weston State Hospital under a 1951 statute which provides such care for persons classed as habitual inebriates, so they may be treated as mental patients.

The complaint for their commitment was signed by Sheriff F. G. Davis, who charged the brothers have been habitual drunkards for 20 years and are unfit to care for themselves and are dangerous to themselves due to the continuous use of alcohol.

Bulls, contrary to popular opinion, do not become excited by red than by other colors.

Rural Phone Lines Will Be Extended

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — The Board of Directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of West Virginia authorized these expenditures yesterday for improvements and expansion of facilities:

A total of $161,000 for extension of cable facilities in eastern sections of Keyser and southern sections of Ridgeley and Philippi to meet demands for rural service.

STAG LINES

By BERT BACHARACH

Seashore Suits in Blossom

'52 Beach Wear

LOS ANGELES—I'm out here attending the opening of next season's California sportswear lines. At the left is an example of what you'll see on the southern beaches next month and all over the country next summer. It's called "Hibiscus" by Catalina.

Apparel Notes: Hollywood Tailor Richard MacIntosh puts a small zipper in the back of his customers' trousers. After a heavy meal, this auxiliary zipper is loosened. . . . Comedian Jerry Lewis says: "Every time I wear a squared-off pocket handkerchief, it makes me think I've forgotten to mail a letter!"

Handyman: When a screw becomes loosened in wood or plaster, stuff a bit of steel wool in the hole. It will hold fast.

Food Notes: If you'd like to have the recipe for the West Coast's famed Caesar Salad a self-addressed, stamped envelope will bring it to you by return mail. . . . No matter what language you speak, you won't get seasonings mixed on a Pan American Clipper. One packet is marked "Salt—Sal—Sel—Zout" and the other, "Pepper—Pimienta—Poivre—Peper."

New Ideas: A new transparent vinylite tobacco pouch seals itself when you fold it up. Tobacco stays fresh for weeks. . . . A brass, chrome and plastic desk gadget showing temperature and humidity is now availiable.

Suiting Yourself: When you try on a new suit, put everything in the pockets that you normally carry—and put on a belt or suspenders, whichever you wear, as shown at the right. That way—and that way only—the suit will fit properly when altered.

Pocket Test

Odd Items: One of the most popular barber shops in Los Angeles is in a men's shop, Jerry Rothschild's—a movie star in every chair. . . . Hastings', a San Francisco apparel store, has set aside one whole floor as a Health Club. (Take a steam bath—and have your clothes taken in an inch or two). . . . Some of my Hollywood friends who try to look "ten years younger" confide that they use a muscle-building facial called "Aralinn."

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Bob Hope, who's willing to let anything else wait while he entertains vets and GIs. That's number one on his life's agenda!

LOS ANGELES—I'm out here attending the opening of next season's California sportswear lines. At the left is an example of what you'll see on the southern beaches next month and all over the country next summer. It's called "Hibiscus" by Catalina.

Apparel Notes: Hollywood Tailor Richard MacIntosh puts a small zipper in the back of his customers' trousers. After a heavy meal, this auxiliary zipper is loosened. . . . Comedian Jerry Lewis says: "Every time I wear a squared-off pocket handkerchief, it makes me think I've forgotten to mail a letter!"

Handyman: When a screw becomes loosened in wood or plaster, stuff a bit of steel wool in the hole. It will hold fast.

Food Notes: If you'd like to have the recipe for the West Coast's famed Caesar Salad a self-addressed, stamped envelope will bring it to you by return mail. . . . No matter what language you speak, you won't get seasonings mixed on a Pan American Clipper. One packet is marked "Salt—Sal—Sel—Zout" and the other, "Pepper—Pimienta—Poivre—Peper."

New Ideas: A new transparent vinylite tobacco pouch seals itself when you fold it up. Tobacco stays fresh for weeks. . . . A brass, chrome and plastic desk gadget showing temperature and humidity is now availiable.

Suiting Yourself: When you try on a new suit, put everything in the pockets that you normally carry—and put on a belt or suspenders, whichever you wear, as shown at the right. That way—and that way only—the suit will fit properly when altered.

Pocket Test

Odd Items: One of the most popular barber shops in Los Angeles is in a men's shop, Jerry Rothschild's—a movie star in every chair. . . . Hastings', a San Francisco apparel store, has set aside one whole floor as a Health Club. (Take a steam bath—and have your clothes taken in an inch or two). . . . Some of my Hollywood friends who try to look "ten years younger" confide that they use a muscle-building facial called "Aralinn."

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Bob Hope, who's willing to let anything else wait while he entertains vets and GIs. That's number one on his life's agenda!

Market Falls To Lowest Point Since Mid-Summer

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—In the midst of international uncertainties and the domestic pressure on profits, the stock market declined today to the lowest point since mid-summer.

The fall cut leading issues down by between one and two points at the most and left only fractional gains in active areas.

Rails, steels, oils, chemicals, and aircrafts declined, and there was a liberal sprinkling of minus signs in motors, distillers, radio-televisions, building materials, and utilities.

Only one of the 16 most active issues gained—St. Regis Paper up ½ at 16⅞. At the top of the list was National Power & Light off ⅜ at 13¾, followed by Greyhound off ¼ at 11, International Nickel off ⅛ at 39⅞, Standard Oil (NJ) off 1⅝ at 68½, Curtiss-Wright off ⅛ at 10, and General Motors off ¼ at 49¾.

Also lower were such issues as Youngstown Sheet & Tube off 1 at 49, Studebaker ¾ at 29⅞, Boeing 1¼ at 46⅛ (after reporting sharply lower earnings), Lockheed 1 at 21⅛, American Telephone ⅜ at 156½, duPont 1¼ at 83¾, American Can 1¾ at 106, American Woolen ⅜ at 38¼, Santa Fe 2 at 69, Amerada Petroleum 10 at 150, Texas Pacific Land Trust 1¾ at 152¼, U. S. Gypsum 1¼ at 111¾, U. S. Smelting 2½ at 68, Standard Oil of Indiana 2¼ at 70⅜, Kaiser Aluminum 2 at 33⅝, Cities Service 2 at 105½, and Corning Glass 2½ at 64.

Market Falls To Lowest Point Since Mid-Summer

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—In the midst of international uncertainties and the domestic pressure on profits, the stock market declined today to the lowest point since mid-summer.

The fall cut leading issues down by between one and two points at the most and left only fractional gains in active areas.

Rails, steels, oils, chemicals, and aircrafts declined, and there was a liberal sprinkling of minus signs in motors, distillers, radio-televisions, building materials, and utilities.

Fall From Train Fatal To Local B&O Brakeman

Forrest Dailey Goff Dies After Accident

A 45-year-old local brakeman for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company died about 15 minutes after falling from the top of a train while working yesterday afternoon near Altamont.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, deputy medical examiner for Garrett County, said Forrest Dailey Goff, RFD 5, this city, died about 2 p.m. yesterday with a fracture of the skull.

Workers told Dr. Baumgartner that Goff's train was standing approximately 200 yards from the bridge at Altamont. They said Goff was standing on top of a box car and was leaning over, then straightened up and plunged to the track below.

Dr. Baumgartner said an autopsy will be performed this morning.

A native of Terra Alta, W. Va., Mr. Goff was born September 13, 1906, a son of Arthur Forrest Goff, Hopemont, W. Va., and the late Elizabeth Catherine Goff.

Besides his father, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Florence Bucklew and Mrs. W. E. Peaslee, both of Cumberland; and two brothers, Walter J. Goff, Morgantown, W. Va., and Parley D. Goff, Chicago.

The body is at Bolden Funeral Home, Oakland, and will be brought to Hafer Funeral Home here this afternoon. A funeral service will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. in the funeral home, and interment will be in Beverley Hill Cemetery, near Morgantown.

Celanese Income Shows Drop But Outlook Better

1951 Earnings Net $5,670,847

Celanese Corporation of America yesterday reported net income of $5,670,847 after charges and taxes for the three months ended September 30, equivalent after preferred dividends to 77 cents per share of common stock.

This compares with $9,944,361, or $1.67 a share on 330,846½ fewer shares in the corresponding period of last year.

For the first nine months of the year, net income after charges and taxes amounted to $22,338,733, equal to $3.27 a common share on the 5,844,954 shares outstanding compared with $29,989,645, or $5.03 a share on the 5,514,107 shares outstanding a year ago.

Sales for the September quarter were $45,427,061, making a total for the first nine months of $170,940,107. This compares with $63,409,304 and $169,021,926 for the respective periods of 1950.

The general decline in business in the textile industry adversely affected operations for the third quarter, and the decline has continued since, according to Harold Blancke, president. However, present indications are that the situation is gradually improving.

In the month of October an issue of $50,000,000 of 3½ per cent debentures, due October 1, 1976, was made, Blancke explained, and out of the proceeds $19,750,000 was used to pay off bank notes becoming due from 1953 to 1958, the balance being added to the general corporate funds of the company.

This financing brings to a conclusion the company's plans for establishing the pattern of a simplified capital structure. Moderate sinking fund requirements for debt reduction have been arranged, said Blancke, and the foundation for a broad equity base has been created.

Two Area Men Held On Forgery

Two Tri-Ttowns men are being held in Allegany County Jail for action of the Frand Jury under $1,000 bond each after waiving a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrate Court on charges of forgery.

Tilden Jackson Samuels, 75, Piedmont, W. Va., is charged with issuing and signing two fraudulent checks on August 15 and October 6, one to the amount of $12.50 and the other for $14.45. Both checks were made to be drawn on the Citizens National Bank, Westernport.

Clyde Vernon Whitacre, 55, Westernport, was charged with knowingly receiving and endorsing the bad checks and drawing money for them at the Westernport bank.

Authorities said Samuels had written the fraudulent checks and had made them payable to Whitacre who cashed them at the bank. Later the two men split the money between them. Samuels had signed the name of "Thomas White" to the checks, officials said.

Mrs. Harry Barton, president of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association, announced the goal for this year as $15,000. Sales will begin today and will end on Christmas Day.

Glenn K. Davis To Head Christmas Seal Campaign

Glenn K. Davis, manager of Tri-State Towel and Coat Service, will serve as chairman for the 1951 Christmas Seal Sale in the county, Mrs. Harry Barton, president of Allegany County Tuberculosis Association, announced yesterday.

The sale of Christmas seals will be conducted in Allegany County by the association from November 19 to December 25. Officials said that this year's goal is $15,000.

In accepting the chairmanship, Davis said he was honored by the appointment and would do all he could to make this year's Christmas Seal Sale the best the county has ever had.

"The Allegany County Tuberculosis Association is working for us the year round," Davis pointed out, "yet it appeals just once a year with the Christmas Seal Sale, for financial support for many of its services." The coming Christmas Seal Sale will finance the work of the association during 1952.

School Lunch Program Gets National Note

Photographs Will Appear In New York

On of these centers around a series of tinted photographs which emphasize the nutrition and lunch-hour activities conducted at Eckhart School, one of the smallest in the county.

Framed Pictures

These pictures, framed in five sets, will be displayed next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the American School Food Service Convention in New York City's Hotel Statler.

Taken by Miss Imogen Caudill, school principal, after outsiders commented on the constructive noon-hour recreation program conducted at the Eckhart School cafeteria, these pictures were first displayed last weekend at the State PTA Congress in Hagerstown. Miss Mildred Willison, elementary school supervisor, cooperated in arrangement of the display.

William P. Cooper, cafeteria director in the county school system, will send the five sets of pictures to New York City this week. They were on display at the Board of Education building earlier this week.

A second stress on the school lunch program in this county is carried in an illustrated article embodied in a new desk diary for 1952 which has just been distributed around the country by John Sexton and Company, Chicago wholesale grocery firm.

County Featured

Introductory pages in the diary feature an article entitled "Maryland Shows What Can Be Done," which actually explains the school lunch program operated in Allegany County. A number of pictures of school cafeterias accompany the account. These pictures show cafeterias of Fort Hill, Allegany, Barton and Cresaptown schools, as well as the cafeteria kitchens of Fort Hill and Bruce High Schools.

Finally, the current issue of the American School Food Service News carries an article by Cooper on the present status of the Federal school lunch program.

Officials say that the chief reason for the special recognition of the county lunch program is its emphasis on a balanced lunch for each child. Whereas nearly two-thirds of the Allegany County school pupils get a balanced luncheon in a cafeteria each school day, most Maryland counties can count only between 15 and 30 per cent of their pupils in this group.

A total of 181 banks will act as agents in selling the first half of the bonds. The remaining $37,500,000 worth will be offered when needed, probably after the first of the year.

Dr. Jones Says Religion, Science Not Opposed

Throng Of 1,300 Hears Evangelist

The scientific and the Christian approaches to life are not contradictory, Dr. E. Stanley Jones, noted evangelist, told an audience of 1,300 last night at Fort Hill High School.

Dr. Jones, who is conducting a week-long tour here, will speak again tonight and tomorrow night at the school, following a day of talks in Cumberland and Frostburg.

"There are two great approaches to life," the lecturer said last night. "Christianity works from revelation down to life. Science works from the facts up to conclusion.

"Are these two ways of life coming out at two places or one? Are the judgments of life and the judgment of Christ turning out to be the same? Yes.

"Psychology says at least five things throw disruption into the human personality: emptiness; self-centeredness; anger, hate, resentments; fear, worry, anxiety; and a sense of unresolved guilt.

"But Christianity teaches the opposite of these five things—instead of emptiness and Godlessness it teaches there is God and therefore goal, therefore meaning, therefore value instead of self-centeredness it teaches you to lose your life in a higher purpose—the will of God; instead of resentments it teaches good will to everybody, even enemies; instead of fear and anxiety it teaches confidence and trust; instead of guilt it teaches forgiveness through Christ."

Rev. Norman O. Scribner, pastor of First Methodist Church, was chairman for last night's program. Rev. Carl H. Clapp of St. Mark's Evangelical Reformed Church read the Scripture, and Rev. George Tate of McKendree Methodist Church lead devotions.

Dr. Jones will give a radio address today at 8:45 a. m., will address the Kiwanis Club at its 12:15 p. m. meeting at Central YMCA, and will speak at an open meeting at 3 p. m. at Frostburg State Teachers College. His subject at the Fort Hill talk tonight will be "India, Japan and a United Church."

Winter Chills To Continue Here Today

More Freezing Weather Seen

[By The Associated Press]

A chill was expected to settle down over Maryland today in the wake of yesterday's wind and rain storm, but at least there was some compensation. The weather man predicted mostly sunshine and diminishing winds.

Highest temperature readings were expected to reach into the 40s, with a low of 26 to 32 in the mountains of Western Maryland. Elsewhere the weather bureau said the mercury would hit a low in the middle 30s.

The storm also threw State and Baltimore County Police Headquarters at Pikesville into temporary darkness. Radio and teletype communications were disrupted.

Mr. Millholland died shortly before midnight Tuesday at his home. He suffered a heart attack here October 19 and had been a patient in Memorial Hospital until October 25.

Born February 6, 1880, in Cumberland, he was a descendant of the Randolphs of Virginia of Revolutionary War fame. His parents were the late James A. and Virginia Kime Millholland.

Survivors include his widow, the former Miss Jean R. Roberts; a son, Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland, Jr., at home, office manager at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant; and a daughter, Mrs. Betty Joyner, Larchmont, N. Y.

He also leaves two brothers, W. M. Millholland, Birmingham, Ala., and Allen Millholland, Fishkill, N. Y.; a sister Miss Carrie Millholland, Washington, and two half-brothers, Paul Millholland, New York City, and William Millholland, Canada.

The body will be at the home this morning.

Automobile Seat Is Destroyed By Blaze

The front seat of an automobile belonging to Isaac R. Izzett, Potomac Street, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning on Offutt Street.

South End firemen answered the call at 11:37 a.m. and extinguished the blaze in a car owned by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employe. A spark from a cigarette apparently caused the blaze, firemen reported.

Colorful floats, marching units and visiting organizations will participate in the mile-long procession.

Plans Progressing For Huge Thanksgiving Balloon Revue

Daffy sailors, Noah's Ark, and other giant features all will be part of the second annual mammoth balloon parade planned in Cumberland Thanksgiving Day by the Mercantile Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce.

The mile-long procession of balloon figures from fairyland will be wending its way in downtown Cumberland November 22 beginning at 7:30 p. m., according to Anthony Saeli, secretary-manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Also participating in the revue will be colorful floats, marching units and visiting bands and other organizations, Saeli added.

Lighting and street decorations work for the forerunner of the Yuletide season will be started November 16 and the gay holiday lights will be turned on Thanksgiving evening prior to the parade.

Many features will thrill the kids and adults of the Tri-State area, the Bureau promises. Included in the line of march will be Admiral Snoop of the King's Navy. The fat and laughing admiral will pilot his inflated sailboat, 55 feet in length.

The ship's crew will be composed of the Admiral, Gertie Gizzle the Gook, and First Mate Sidney Seasick.

Also scheduled to thrill the young and old November 22 will be a 75-foot float representing a real old-fashioned covered wagon pulled by two balloon horses and Elmer the balloon elephant, carrying Major Mike the Maharajah on his back, 14 feet above the ground.

Engineers Hit Nuisance Strike Set By Firemen

Would Gain Nothing, Says Brotherhood

Officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers told members here yesterday that it will recognize the strike threatened by the B. of L. F. and E. as legal but declared nothing constructive could be gained by the firemen's organization by striking four scattered railroads.

The strike in question was called by the B. of L. F. and E. for today on four big railroads, including the B. and O., but was deferred automatically for 60 days when the President stepped in with action requiring the delay.

F. M. Hamilton, special representative of the B. of L. E., said in an open meeting here yesterday that the B. of L. E. recognizes this as a legal strike. Our members working as engineers will continue to perform their usual duties. Members working as firemen will respect the strike order in conformity with the provisions of paragraph A section 92, statutes. If picket lines are established our members will be governed by Paragraph B of Section 92.

The past record of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen was discussed relative to other strikes they called where only a few scattered railroads were involved.

Also present were S. L. Wauhop, chief engineer, T. P. Hoggard, local chairman, and R. M. Breighner, secretary treasurer, all officers of Division 934, located here.

Seek Explanation

Hamilton said two members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen present failed to give a valid explanation why the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was the Eastern line affected by the firemen's strike.

He pointed out that in May, 1950, engineers were dismissed from service on railroads west of Pittsburgh as the result of a "nuisance" strike by the B. of L. F. and E.

The B. of L. E., he said, believes nothing constructive can be gained from striking four scattered railroads and that past records show that its men would become directly involved through a decrease of employment on the struck railroads.

Want Direct Talks

The Engineers' representative also declared the B. of L. E. "wants nothing to do" with emergency panels or fact-finding boards but wants direct negotiations with the railroads.

Hamilton said the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen failed to notify the B. of L. E. of the strike call until Tuesday at 11 a. m.

The presidential action requires a 60-day delay in the stoppage which was originally called this afternoon.

During the meeting officials read a mimeographed letter posted on B. and O. bulletin board over the name of W. C. Baker, B. and O. vice president, which said in part:

"During my 45 years of railroad service I have seen many strikes come and go. Never in my experience have I known a strike to be called that was so unnecessary as this one. There is no reason for it.

"Representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen on our lines and our officers are in agreement but the grand officers of the organization refuse to permit their representatives on our lines to settle with us.

"If this strike takes place it will demoralize our business. Only from the work we do is the work of our employes made possible. Shippers are already routing freight against us because of the wide publicity the threat of this strike on our lines has had during the last several days.

"The business we will lose has been hard won and it will be difficult to have it all returned to us in the future. No strike has been called on any other railroad in the East.

"If the strike takes place we will probably be obliged to furlough employes not needed for the duration."

Glenn K. Davis To Head Christmas Seal Campaign

Glenn K. Davis, manager of Tri-State Towel and Coat Service, will serve as chairman for the 1951 Christmas Seal Sale in the county, Mrs. Harry Barton, president of Allegany County Tuberculosis Association, announced yesterday.

The sale of Christmas seals will be conducted in Allegany County by the association from November 19 to December 25. Officials said that this year's goal is $15,000.

In accepting the chairmanship, Davis said he was honored by the appointment and would do all he could to make this year's Christmas Seal Sale the best the county has ever had.

"The Allegany County Tuberculosis Association is working for us the year round," Davis pointed out, "yet it appeals just once a year with the Christmas Seal Sale, for financial support for many of its services." The coming Christmas Seal Sale will finance the work of the association during 1952.

School Lunch Program Gets National Note

Photographs Will Appear In New York

Three current developments are focusing national attention on the school lunch program operated in Allegany County public schools.

On of these centers around a series of tinted photographs which emphasize the nutrition and lunch-hour activities conducted at Eckhart School, one of the smallest in the county.

Framed Pictures

These pictures, framed in five sets, will be displayed next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the American School Food Service Convention in New York City's Hotel Statler.

Taken by Miss Imogen Caudill, school principal, after outsiders commented on the constructive noon-hour recreation program conducted at the Eckhart School cafeteria, these pictures were first displayed last weekend at the State PTA Congress in Hagerstown. Miss Mildred Willison, elementary school supervisor, cooperated in arrangement of the display.

William P. Cooper, cafeteria director in the county school system, will send the five sets of pictures to New York City this week. They were on display at the Board of Education building earlier this week.

A second stress on the school lunch program in this county is carried in an illustrated article embodied in a new desk diary for 1952 which has just been distributed around the country by John Sexton and Company, Chicago wholesale grocery firm.

County Featured

Introductory pages in the diary feature an article entitled "Maryland Shows What Can Be Done," which actually explains the school lunch program operated in Allegany County. A number of pictures of school cafeterias accompany the account. These pictures show cafeterias of Fort Hill, Allegany, Barton and Cresaptown schools, as well as the cafeteria kitchens of Fort Hill and Bruce High Schools.

Finally, the current issue of the American School Food Service News carries an article by Cooper on the present status of the Federal school lunch program.

Officials say that the chief reason for the special recognition of the county lunch program is its emphasis on a balanced lunch for each child. Whereas nearly two-thirds of the Allegany County school pupils get a balanced luncheon in a cafeteria each school day, most Maryland counties can count only between 15 and 30 per cent of their pupils in this group.

Parking Violations Head The List In Traffic Enforcement Report

October Data Is Given By Commissioner Long

Parking violations led the list of the October traffic enforcement report of the City Police Department, Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long announces.

Dr. Jones Says Religion, Science Not Opposed

Throng Of 1,300 Hears Evangelist

The scientific and the Christian approaches to life are not contradictory, Dr. E. Stanley Jones, noted evangelist, told an audience of 1,300 last night at Fort Hill High School.

Dr. Jones, who is conducting a week-long tour here, will speak again tonight and tomorrow night at the school, following a day of talks in Cumberland and Frostburg.

"There are two great approaches to life," the lecturer said last night. "Christianity works from revelation down to life. Science works from the facts up to conclusion.

"Are these two ways of life coming out at two places or one? Are the judgments of life and the judgment of Christ turning out to be the same? Yes.

"Psychology says at least five things throw disruption into the human personality: emptiness; self-centeredness; anger, hate, resentments; fear, worry, anxiety; and a sense of unresolved guilt.

"But Christianity teaches the opposite of these five things—instead of emptiness and Godlessness it teaches there is God and therefore goal, therefore meaning, therefore value instead of self-centeredness it teaches you to lose your life in a higher purpose—the will of God; instead of resentments it teaches good will to everybody, even enemies; instead of fear and anxiety it teaches confidence and trust; instead of guilt it teaches forgiveness through Christ."

Rev. Norman O. Scribner, pastor of First Methodist Church, was chairman for last night's program. Rev. Carl H. Clapp of St. Mark's Evangelical Reformed Church read the Scripture, and Rev. George Tate of McKendree Methodist Church lead devotions.

Dr. Jones will give a radio address today at 8:45 a. m., will address the Kiwanis Club at its 12:15 p. m. meeting at Central YMCA, and will speak at an open meeting at 3 p. m. at Frostburg State Teachers College. His subject at the Fort Hill talk tonight will be "India, Japan and a United Church."

Winter Chills To Continue Here Today

More Freezing Weather Seen

[By The Associated Press]

A chill was expected to settle down over Maryland today in the wake of yesterday's wind and rain storm, but at least there was some compensation. The weather man predicted mostly sunshine and diminishing winds.

Highest temperature readings were expected to reach into the 40s, with a low of 26 to 32 in the mountains of Western Maryland. Elsewhere the weather bureau said the mercury would hit a low in the middle 30s.

The heavy rains of last week and yesterday equaled the entire rainfall usually expected during November.

The two storms that collided over the state early yesterday disrupted electric service at Baltimore's city hospitals. Doctors, nurses and orderlies took turns pumping three iron lungs for polio patients during the two-hour, 20-minute cutoff. One quick-thinking nurse gave artificial respiration to a patient during the change-over.

In the obstetrical department, one baby was born under the glare of an emerency spotlight. Doctors and nurses made their rounds with flashlights.

The power failure was blamed on a short circuit caused by moisture around wiring in a transformer.

The storm also threw State and Baltimore County Police Headquarters at Pikesville into temporary darkness. Radio and teletype communications were disrupted.

Born February 6, 1880, in Cumberland, he was a descendant of the Randolphs of Virginia of Revolutionary War fame. His parents were the late James A. and Virginia Kime Millholland.

Survivors include his widow, the former Miss Jean R. Roberts; a son, Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland, Jr., at home, office manager at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant; and a daughter, Mrs. Betty Joyner, Larchmont, N. Y.

He also leaves two brothers, W. M. Millholland, Birmingham, Ala., and Allen Millholland, Fishkill, N. Y.; a sister Miss Carrie Millholland, Washington, and two half-brothers, Paul Millholland, New York City, and William Millholland, Canada.

The body will be at the home this morning.

Automobile Seat Is Destroyed By Blaze

The front seat of an automobile belonging to Isaac R. Izzett, Potomac Street, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning on Offutt Street.

South End firemen answered the call at 11:37 a.m. and extinguished the blaze in a car owned by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employe. A spark from a cigarette apparently caused the blaze, firemen reported.

Colorful floats, marching units and visiting organizations will participate in the mile-long procession.

Plans Progressing For Huge Thanksgiving Balloon Revue

Daffy sailors, Noah's Ark, and other giant features all will be part of the second annual mammoth balloon parade planned in Cumberland Thanksgiving Day by the Mercantile Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce.

The mile-long procession of balloon figures from fairyland will be wending its way in downtown Cumberland November 22 beginning at 7:30 p. m., according to Anthony Saeli, secretary-manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Also participating in the revue will be colorful floats, marching units and visiting bands and other organizations, Saeli added.

Lighting and street decorations work for the forerunner of the Yuletide season will be started November 16 and the gay holiday lights will be turned on Thanksgiving evening prior to the parade.

Many features will thrill the kids and adults of the Tri-State area, the Bureau promises. Included in the line of march will be Admiral Snoop of the King's Navy. The fat and laughing admiral will pilot his inflated sailboat, 55 feet in length.

The ship's crew will be composed of the Admiral, Gertie Gizzle the Gook, and First Mate Sidney Seasick.

Another big feature will be a new 60-foot long balloon, Noah's Ark, with dozens of balloon animals bobbing their heads out the windows.

Also scheduled to thrill the young and old November 22 will be a 75-foot float representing a real old-fashioned covered wagon pulled by two balloon horses and Elmer the balloon elephant, carrying Major Mike the Maharajah on his back, 14 feet above the ground.

Engineers Hit Nuisance Strike Set By Firemen

Officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers told members here yesterday that it will recognize the strike threatened by the B. of L. F. and E. as legal but declared nothing constructive could be gained by the firemen's organization by striking four scattered railroads.

The strike in question was called by the B. of L. F. and E. for today on four big railroads, including the B. and O., but was deferred automatically for 60 days when the President stepped in with action requiring the delay.

F. M. Hamilton, special representative of the B. of L. E., said in an open meeting here yesterday that the B. of L. E. recognizes this as a legal strike. Our members working as engineers will continue to perform their usual duties. Members working as firemen will respect the strike order in conformity with the provisions of paragraph A section 92, statutes. If picket lines are established our members will be governed by Paragraph B of Section 92.

The past record of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen was discussed relative to other strikes they called where only a few scattered railroads were involved.

Also present were S. L. Wauhop, chief engineer, T. P. Hoggard, local chairman, and R. M. Breighner, secretary treasurer, all officers of Division 934, located here.

Seek Explanation

Hamilton said two members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen present failed to give a valid explanation why the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was the Eastern line affected by the firemen's strike.

He pointed out that in May, 1950, engineers were dismissed from service on railroads west of Pittsburgh as the result of a "nuisance" strike by the B. of L. F. and E.

The B. of L. E., he said, believes nothing constructive can be gained from striking four scattered railroads and that past records show that its men would become directly involved through a decrease of employment on the struck railroads.

Want Direct Talks

The Engineers' representative also declared the B. of L. E. "wants nothing to do" with emergency panels or fact-finding boards but wants direct negotiations with the railroads.

Hamilton said the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen failed to notify the B. of L. E. of the strike call until Tuesday at 11 a. m.

The presidential action requires a 60-day delay in the stoppage which was originally called this afternoon.

During the meeting officials read a mimeographed letter posted on B. and O. bulletin board over the name of W. C. Baker, B. and O. vice president, which said in part:

"During my 45 years of railroad service I have seen many strikes come and go. Never in my experience have I known a strike to be called that was so unnecessary as this one. There is no reason for it.

"Representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen on our lines and our officers are in agreement but the grand officers of the organization refuse to permit their representatives on our lines to settle with us.

"If this strike takes place it will demoralize our business. Only from the work we do is the work of our employes made possible. Shippers are already routing freight against us because of the wide publicity the threat of this strike on our lines has had during the last several days.

"The business we will lose has been hard won and it will be difficult to have it all returned to us in the future. No strike has been called on any other railroad in the East.

"If the strike takes place we will probably be obliged to furlough employes not needed for the duration."

Mooney has served on the committee for several years.
